Mao Concerned About Planting

TOKYO (AP) — Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung has ordered Red China's army to "exert every effort" to help in the spring planting, indicating concern that the turmoil of Mao's purge may cut the crop.

Peking's official New China News Agency today reported a letter from the Communist party Central Committee which said, "Units of the People's Liberation Army stationed locally and the military organizations at all levels should exert every effort to support and help with the work of spring cultivation."

Mao's concern with the harvest — whose success or failure could markedly affect his struggle to regain control from President Liu Shao-chi's forces — also indicated that internal dissidence has eaten away at the rural cadres responsible for production by the nation's 500 million peasants.

"Landlords, rich peasants, counter revolutionaries, bad elements and rightists are absolutely not permitted to be unruly in word or deed, to sabotage production or the unity among the working people, or to incite factional disputes," the letter said.

However, Mao promised forgiveness to opponents who acknowledge their errors and atone for mistakes by hard work. The offer marks the extension to the countryside of a policy spelled out earlier this week of keeping repentant opponents in their administrative posts.

"The party's Central Committee believes that the overwhelming majority of cadres at all levels in the rural people's communes are good or at least fairly good," the letter said.

"Those comrades who have made mistakes should also make energetic efforts in the spring cultivation so as to make good deeds."

Nuclear Pact Reaches Snag In Europe

Common Market Nations Want Self-Inspection

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have told the European Common Market nations they can't police their own compliance with the proposed treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Qualified sources at the 17-nation disarmament conference said this has emerged as one of the main obstacles to a treaty.

West Germany and Italy — supported behind the scenes by France — want supervision on their soil to be carried out by the six-nation European Atomic Energy Association — Euratom.

The Soviet Union has denounced this as an attempt at "self-inspection". American negotiators seem to have accepted the Soviet view.

In Soviet-American talks in New York over the past three months, the two nuclear superpowers agreed that the only acceptable controlling body was the 95-nation International Atomic Energy Agency — IAEA — based in Vienna.

When the disarmament talks resumed Tuesday following a six-month recess, U.S. delegate William C. Foster told newsmen "controls should be carried out by a wholly international agency able to look at safeguards throughout the world."

Foster said such an agency already exists in the IAEA "and we believe it should have the job of ensuring that peaceful (nuclear) products are not diverted to military purposes."

France, which boycotts the disarmament conference, has given notice it will not sign any nonproliferation treaty negotiated here.

As a nuclear military power, France would not be subject to controls in any case.

Despite the objections from West Germany, Italy and other countries, American officials are confident the treaty will be signed this summer.

West Germany and Italy object to IAEA controls on two main grounds:

They fear that IAEA inspectors could conduct industrial espionage on behalf of the Russians, who are members of the agency, and they argue that the treaty setting up Euratom does not allow its members to submit to controls from any other body.

Foster said some compromise would have to be worked out with the Euratom members to permit IAEA inspection. He stressed that this would still leave plenty of work for Euratom to do, such as distributing and supervising plutonium provided by the United States for the Common Market countries.

Thief Takes Box Of Poisoned Darts

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Authorities have asked a thief to bring his loot back before he hurts himself or someone else.

A box containing poisoned darts used to kill rabid animals was taken from a city dog warder's truck, officials said Tuesday. They said a scratch with one of the darts could cause instant death.

Papal Diatribe Blasts 'Blind' Secular Thought

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today proclaimed a "Year of Faith" to commemorate the 19th centenary of the martyrdom of St. Peter and St. Paul. He called on Roman Catholics during the year to abandon certain attitudes toward the Church which he said had developed in the wake of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

"New opinions in exegesis and theology often borrowed from bold and blind secular philosophies have in places found a way into the realm of Catholic teaching," the pontiff declared in a letter to all his bishops.

"They question or distort the objective sense of truths taught with authority by the Church. Under the pretext of adapting religious thought to the contemporary outlook, they cut away from the guidance of the Church's teaching, give the foundations by theological speculation a historical direction."

He called on all Roman Catholics for "a single profession of faith." He said he hoped the centenary would stimulate fuller awareness by Catholics of their faith and that they would purify and strengthen it.

"We cannot fail to know that the present time shows there is great need of this," he added.

This was an apparent allusion to much of the ferment and change inside the church since the Vatican Ecumenical Council, including recent defections by priests leaving the church to marry.

Within hours after the last polls had closed, a Communist-led front had won control of Kerala State again by a much larger margin than expected, the right-wing Hindu Jan Sangh party held a big lead in the Delhi Federal Territory, 13 state ministers from the Congress had been defeated, and two of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Cabinet members were trailing in their races for Parliament.

The Congress, facing the electorate nationally for the first time without the leadership of Jawaharlal Nehru, made its worst showing in the southern state of Kerala. There a seven-party coalition led by the pro-Peking Communists won control of the state assembly.

By his own statement, he remains president in name only and even this title may be taken away from him. Informed sources said Congress at its meeting next month may take a final disposition of his future.

There was speculation whether Sukarno would leave Indonesia. But his Japanese wife, Ratna Sari Dewi, said in Tokyo she did not believe he will leave the country. She is in Tokyo to await the birth of her first child.

Sukarno had surrendered most of his powers to Suharto last March but he remained a symbol to millions of Indonesians as the father of Indonesia's independence.

dare to rob Holy Scripture's testimony of its sacred and historical character and try to introduce a so-called 'post conciliar' mentality among the people of God."

The pontiff said that the Year of Faith would start on June 29, the feast day of the two apostles, and would last until June 29, 1968.

He ordered special religious celebrations and prayers in every church, parish, seminary, religious house and Catholic home.

The Pope appealed to non-Catholic Christians to join in the commemoration.

He did not specify what he thought would be suitable.

Pope Paul acknowledged that the exact date of martyrdoms could not be fixed, saying they occurred in Rome during Nero's persecutions of 64-68. He said he was following the example of Pope Pius IX, "who wished the solemn commemoration of St. Peter's martyrdom to be held in the year 1867."

He called on all Roman Catholics for "a single profession of faith." He said he hoped the centenary would stimulate fuller awareness by Catholics of their faith and that they would purify and strengthen it.

Council Okays Initial Move To Purchase New Fire Truck

City Council Tuesday night approved one of the initial steps that will lead to the purchase of a new truck for the Circleville Fire Department.

The lawmakers passed an ordinance authorizing the safety director to advertise for bids for the purchase. Specifications already prepared call for a vehicle equipped with a 1,000-gallon per minute pump and other accessories.

Money to pay for the new truck was originated back in 1964 when local voters approved a one-mill levy, of three years duration, to provide new fire-fighting equipment for the department.

One of the first purchases was a new, modern aerial ladder vehicle which was put into service last year. Additional gear included a two-way radio communication system and other essential items.

THE TRUCK that will be obtained in the future will replace a 1940 model. Firemen say it is a real problem to find replacement parts for the old vehicle.

Disposition of the vintage truck was not immediately determined, although Councilman John Simson of the Fourth Ward has commented the vehicle could be put to good use by locating it south or west of the railroad tracks.

Efforts to place fire equipment south of the tracks have cropped up numerous times in the past. The aim is to offset lack of protection created while trains are passing through the city.

Main objective of the 1964 equipment levy was to improve the city's fire protection insurance rating.

The city's protection rating improved shortly after purchase of the aerial ladder unit, dropping from class 8 to class 7. Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe said the objective now is to attain 6th class or better.

The reduction in classification normally means a decrease in property insurance rates for the community.

GM Lay Off Is Scheduled

Due to Shortage From Ohio Strike

DETROIT (AP) — At least 80,000 General Motors Corp. assembly line workers today were marked for layoffs because of a parts shortage created by a wildcat walkout in Ohio.

GM said a series of layoffs, to be completed by the weekend, will idle assembly lines in 22 of the firm's 23 auto production plants scattered across the nation.

"The 80,000 figure is conservative," a GM spokesman said. "It could hit 100,000."

The nation's biggest auto builder said its assembly lines would halt because the strike-bound Fisher Body plant in Mansfield, Ohio, no longer is producing parts.

The strike by 2,650 members of the United Auto Workers Union is in its seventh day, although the UAW's international officers, as well as GM, have condemned it as illegal. Neither side in Mansfield seemed ready to budge.

Some 2,900 members of striking Local 549 voted unanimously Tuesday night to continue the strike and local President Robert Hall said a return to work before a settlement is reached would be unthinkable.

GM officials said they would not negotiate until the strikers get back on the job.

The plant produces door panels, floor pans and other parts for GM cars. Without these parts GM workers cannot assemble a complete car.

A GM spokesman said "an extended strike could be disastrous. I guess up to 200,000 of GM's 375,000 jobs in the United States are involved in functions which need the parts we're already short of."

He said a long strike would lead to layoffs in related industries — production of spark-plugs, batteries, headlights and other automobile parts.

Airman Run Over By Girl Friend

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A Clinton County Air Force Base airman was killed early today as his car, driven by a girl friend, ran over him.

Killed was Robert G. Allen, 24, of Illington, N.C.

Authorities said he and Miss Joyce S. Cline, 23, of New Vienna had been parked on a road near the base. They said Allen got out and Miss Cline drove down the road, turned around and followed another car back.

They said Allen was lying in the road and the first car swerved and missed him but the one driven by Miss Cline ran over him.

Police were continuing an investigation but no charges were filed immediately.

Talks Okayed, But No Bomb Halt Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration sources picture President Johnson as maintaining a constant course on Vietnam policy — willing to entertain peace overtures, but determined to continue the bombing of North Vietnam in their absence.

They said Thursday Johnson feels the United States has neither hardened nor softened its attitude toward peace talks in recent weeks.

Those familiar with the President's views said he is convinced the Soviet Union wants peace restored in Vietnam and appreciates its efforts in this direction.

Meanwhile a longtime critic of U.S. military policy in Vietnam, retired Gen. James M. Gavin, said he believes internal turmoil in Red China offers a prime opportunity for ending the Vietnam war.

Gavin told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Red China's problems might make North Vietnam more willing to negotiate a settlement. He also warned that escalation of the war at this time could provide the Chinese with the basis for stabilizing its inner disorders, while responding to Hanoi's need for aid.

In other developments: A debate on Vietnam appeared to be shaping up in the Senate as it prepares to take up Thursday the $4.5 billion spending authorization bill.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., called Tuesday for extended debate on the bill by the full Senate, noting it marked the first opportunity for floor discussion of the war. He said he was confident there wouldn't be a vote on the measure for several days. But Senate Democratic whip Russell B. Long of Louisiana (Continued on Page 2)

Romney Sees Politics in War Policies

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan has assailed the Johnson administration on the Vietnam war, saying the administration had made some decisions on a basis of political expediency. He declined to give an example of his charge.

Romney, on a tour of the west, spent more than 30 minutes at a Pocatello news conference Tuesday parrying questions about his position on Vietnam.

Asked if he would say what the political expediencies were, the Republican governor replied:

"No, I will not."
"Why?" asked a reporter.
"Because I choose not to," Romney replied.

"Do you mean you make charges and won't substantiate them?" he was asked.

"Not at this time," he said. Asked if his position on Vietnam was not political expediency, he replied: "No."

Romney spent Tuesday on a nostalgic tour of some scenes of his boyhood in agricultural eastern Idaho, and in three speeches continued to hammer away at the Johnson administration.

At the news conference, Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson said "it's a little too early to make any commitments," when asked if he would support Romney for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I can't tell you at this point because he hasn't announced," said Samuelson.

Romney has not announced for the nomination, but has indicated he is considering it and is making this trip to help him decide.

Romney's trip earlier took him to Alaska and Utah. He will be in New Mexico and Arizona before he returns to Michigan.

He was scheduled to fly to Albuquerque, N.M., this afternoon.

How They Go to School In Wealthy California

CALIPATRIA, Calif. (AP) — What's it like to go to high school in a tent?

On the California desert, it's breezy.

Winter winds are obviously going to be a problem for the 325 students of the Calipatria Unified High School District — or "Calipat" as it's called.

Come late May, desert heat will take over. The canvas classrooms will become portable steam baths.

How did the youngsters of this Imperial Valley farming community get into such a predicament?

It began when the high school's main building — a two-story frame and stucco structure — was ruled unsafe in the event of an earthquake. Then, Feb. 14 a $1.3-million bond issue to rectify the situation failed by 27 votes.

District trustees — advised they would be personally liable for damages if an earthquake should hit — ordered the building evacuated.

State aid may produce portable classroom buildings eventually, but right now tents are the answer. Ten of them were leased from a Los Angeles firm for $5,300. These were set up Monday. The first classes moved in Tuesday.

"I don't like it too much," said Derla Wallis, 17, a senior studying journalism. "You don't know whether to take off your coat or not. The tents are drafty at the bottom and hot at the top."

A carnival atmosphere prevailed outside the classes. But not so inside the tents.

Mary Sherry, an English teacher, said of the students: "At first they were so intense that we thought their feelings were hurt about moving out of the main building. But it was just that they were trying hard not to goof off."

"We think it is something we are going to have to put up with and we are going to do the best we can," said Judy Hillock.

Miss Hillock, a 15-year-old sophomore, was apprehensive about the approach of summer, however.

"The sun beat down on the tents yesterday until they got very warm," she said.

Cloudy and cold tonight and tomorrow. High yesterday, 27; low, 19. High today, 40. Low tonight, 18. High tomorrow, 28.

Appeals Court Orders Retrial For Jemison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Richard H. Jemison is leaving Ohio Penitentiary's Death Row for a new trial in the murder of his wife and her former employer at a downtown drug store.

The Franklin County Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday that common pleas court erred last year in failing to hold a sanity hearing before his trial and in accepting evidence police took from the defendant's home without a search warrant.

Jemison, about 50, withdrew his request for a sanity hearing and waived a jury trial before a three-judge panel tried and convicted him.

The appeals court decision noted that the court had received a psychiatrist's opinion that Jemison suffered a "deep, chronic psychosis" yet failed to follow Ohio law by conducting a pretrial sanity hearing.

Victims of the May 10, 1965, shootings for which Jemison was arrested a few days later in Illinois were John Lyman, manager of the drug store at Columbus' main intersection of Broad and High streets, and Mrs. Virginia Jemison.

GM Lay Off Is Scheduled

Due to Shortage From Ohio Strike

DETROIT (AP) — At least 80,000 General Motors Corp. assembly line workers today were marked for layoffs because of a parts shortage created by a wildcat walkout in Ohio.

GM said a series of layoffs, to be completed by the weekend, will idle assembly lines in 22 of the firm's 23 auto production plants scattered across the nation.

"The 80,000 figure is conservative," a GM spokesman said. "It could hit 100,000."

The nation's biggest auto builder said its assembly lines would halt because the strike-bound Fisher Body plant in Mansfield, Ohio, no longer is producing parts.

The strike by 2,650 members of the United Auto Workers Union is in its seventh day, although the UAW's international officers, as well as GM, have condemned it as illegal. Neither side in Mansfield seemed ready to budge.

Some 2,300 members of striking Local 549 voted unanimously Tuesday night to continue the strike and local President Robert Hall said a return to work before a settlement is reached would be unthinkable.

GM officials said they would not negotiate until the strikers get back on the job.

The plant produces door panels, floor pans and other parts for GM cars. Without these parts GM workers cannot assemble a complete car.

A GM spokesman said "an extended strike could be disastrous. I guess up to 200,000 of GM's 375,000 jobs in the United States are involved in functions which need the parts we're already short of."

He said a long strike would lead to layoffs in related industries — production of spark-plugs, batteries, headlights and other automobile parts.

Airman Run Over By Girl Friend

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A Clinton County Air Force Base airman was killed early today as his car, driven by a girl friend, ran over him.

Killed was Robert G. Allen, 24, of Illington, N.C. Authorities said he and Miss Joyce S. Cline, 23, of New Vienna had been parked on a road near the base. They said Allen got out and Miss Cline drove down the road, turned around and followed another car back.

They said Allen was lying in the road and the first car swerved and missed him but the one driven by Miss Cline ran over him.

Police were continuing an investigation but no charges were filed immediately.

How They Go to School In Wealthy California

CALIPATRIA, Calif. (AP) — What's it like to go to high school in a tent?

On the California desert, it's breezy.

Winter winds are obviously going to be a problem for the 325 students of the Calipatria Unified High School District — or "Calipat" as it's called.

Come late May, desert heat will take over. The canvas classrooms will become portable steam baths.

How did the youngsters of this Imperial Valley farming community get into such a predicament?

It began when the high school's main building — a two-story frame and stucco structure — was ruled unsafe in the event of an earthquake. Then, Feb. 14 a $1.3-million bond issue to rectify the situation failed by 27 votes.

District trustees — advised they would be personally liable for damages if an earthquake should hit — ordered the building evacuated.

State aid may produce portable classroom buildings eventually, but right now tents are the answer. Ten of them were leased from a Los Angeles firm for $5,300. These were set up Monday. The first classes moved in Tuesday.

"I don't like it too much," said Delia Wallis, 17, a senior studying journalism. "You don't know whether to take off your coat or not. The tents are drafty at the bottom and hot at the top."

A carnival atmosphere prevailed outside the classes. But not so inside the tents.

Mary Sherry, an English teacher, said of the students: "At first they were so intense that we thought their feelings were hurt about moving out of the main building. But it was just that they were trying hard not to goof off."

"We think it is something we are going to have to put up with and we are going to do the best we can," said Judy Hillock, 15, a sophomore, was apprehensive about the approach of summer, however.

"The sun beat down on the tents yesterday until they got very warm," she said.

Celler Wants Unanimity On Powell

Claude Pepper Reported To Be Main Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP)—With one member insisting that Adam Clayton Powell be expelled from Congress, a House committee tries again today to reach unanimous agreement on lesser punishment of severe censure plus pay penalties.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., admitted after all-day sessions Tuesday that the nine-member committee's failure to conclude its deliberations was due to his desire to achieve unanimity on the recommendation which must go to the House by Thursday night.

Celler said "we may have to do some compromising," and added "I will bend over backward to get a unanimous report."

The committee plans to stay in session today until it concludes its work.

Rep. Claude D. Pepper, D-Fla., was reported the major obstacle to unanimity, contending within and outside the committee that Powell's alleged official misconduct is serious enough to warrant his expulsion from the House.

Members of the committee who tend to favor censure rather than expulsion argue that expelling Powell would make him a martyr and that he would quickly be returned to the House in the special election that would take place to fill his vacant seat.

The committee's ranking Republican Rep. Arch A. Moore of West Virginia, said agreement had been reached on some major issues before the committee.

One of these is believed to be that Powell should be seated before being punished if expelled. Members are understood to be anxious to avoid a possible court challenge of any move to exclude Powell, who apparently meets age, citizenship and in-habitancy requirements of the Constitution.

Exclusion before Powell is seated would require only majority approval. Expulsion after his seating would require two-thirds approval.

Pepper told reporters Tuesday that "if a man is bad enough to be disciplined so severely, he ought to be expelled."

The current plan by supporters of the censure move is to combine the seating censure and all penalties into one resolution which would then require a simple majority for adoption. The matter is expected to come before the House next Tuesday.

One likely part of Powell's punishment is expected to be a plan to withhold from his salary some $33,000 in government funds which he is alleged to have converted to his own use.

Police Probe Theft Reports

A series of minor thefts have been reported to Circleville Police during the last few days.

One of the thefts was reported Tuesday by Eli Starkey of 153 York St. He said a double blade axe with a five pound head was taken.

Ralph Hoffman of 429 S. Court St. reported the loss of a 12-gauge shotgun from his house, taken during the last three days.

He said the gun was taken from its leather case in a closet at his home.

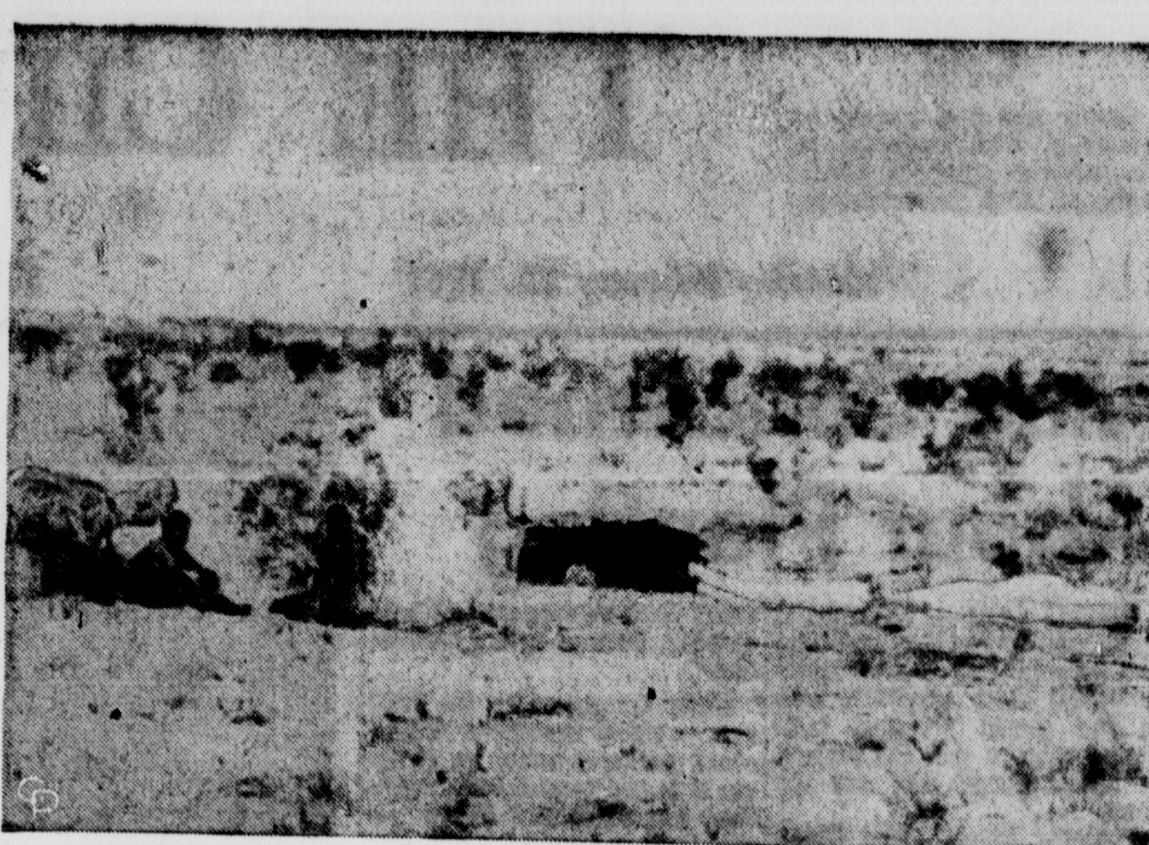

An assortment of other incidents related to thefts in the area are presently under investigation by police.

Neighbors Douse Fire in House

Neighbors of William McGlone of Muhlenberg Twp. doused a fire discovered about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at his home.

The fire started near the chimney of the home and is believed caused by a faulty flue. Sam Morgan, Route 1, Williamsport, notified the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department of the blaze.

The house is owned by the Tootle Estate. Damage was not extensive.

Speed, OMVI Cases Listed By Court

Docket cases Tuesday in Circleville Municipal Court were of a varied nature. Several were for excessive speed.

Jack W. Burton of Ashville was charged by the State Patrol for operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was fined $150 plus court costs, sentenced to three days in the County Jail, and had his driver's license suspended for six months.

In a warning to would-be offenders the court moved for more stringent action against those who insist upon driving without an operator's license—and to those who permit it with their vehicles.

Louise W. Cantrell of Circleville, cited for no operator's license, was fined $25 and costs.

The car owner, Thomas Fout, also was cited for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate the vehicle. He was fined $50 and costs.

Three persons cited for passing stop signs were David C. Pritchard of Lancaster, $15 and costs; Charles E. Brooks, 27, of 729 S. Court St., $15 and costs; Charles W. Parker of Amanda, $10 and costs.

Excessive speed was the violation in other cases. There were the usual 10 to 15 mile an hour over the limit. Cited were Gary A. Albright of Marysville, $10 and costs; Carl E. Rawlins of Columbus, $10 and costs; Charles Altizer Jr., Cleveland, $15 and costs; Gerald K. DeVito, Waverly, $15 and costs; John L. Grabans, 24, of 923 1/2 S. Clinton St., $15 and costs.

None Injured In Collisions

Circleville Police investigated an accident 5:56 p. m. Tuesday when the autos of Larry A. Whaley, 18, Williamsport and Sharon E. McDonald, 26, of Amanda were involved in a collision on Mingo and Main Sts. Minor damage resulted to both vehicles.

The second accident, in which three cars were involved, was at Main and Pickaway Sts., at 9:32 a. m. today. A vehicle driven by John D. Robinson of Route 3 was struck by an auto operated by Van Smith, 76, of 382 Walnut St., police said.

The driver of the third auto was Edward Hulse, 23, of 601 E. Mount St. Officers said damage to autos was slight. No citations were issued.

U.S. Infantry Heavily Hit During Night

2 Enemy Attacks Smash Company Setting Up Base

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. Company of infantry suffered heavy casualties in two Communist mortar attacks during the night as it was setting up a base camp in the central highlands facing the Cambodian border, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

A spokesman said the company of 178 men of the U.S. 4th Infantry division was hit by heavy mortar shelling 41 miles southwest of Kontum City. The term heavy casualties usually means a unit is no longer an effective fighting force.

Four 4th Division tanks in the same area beat off a close-quarter attack by Communist suicide troops who climbed aboard the armored vehicles. The tank crews raked each other's turrets with machine-gun fire to clear off the Communists, and U.S. headquarters said the tankmen sustained no casualties and only light damage to three tanks.

It was the first time reported in the Vietnam war that the enemy climbed onto tanks although this was a tactic frequently employed by the Communists in the Korean war.

To the south, waves of high-flying U.S. B52 bombers pounded War Zone C in four raids against the major Viet Cong jungle stronghold where its national headquarters is believed located close to the Cambodian border.

The big Stratoforts, each unloading up to 30 tons of explosives, hit at base camps and fortified positions in Tay Ninh Province in successive raids from midnight until dawn.

There was no official explanation for the intensified bombing which in the past has sometimes preceded a major ground campaign. U.S. headquarters today announced the end of Operation Gadsden in C Zone and said 161 Communists had been killed since Feb. 2.

In air action over North Vietnam, American pilots kept up their assault on Communist truck convoys Tuesday for the second day. Fliers claimed 17 more supply vehicles knocked out at the Mu Gia Pass, bringing their two-day total to 103 destroyed or damaged.

About 210 U.S. fighter-bombers flew 70 missions against North Vietnam Tuesday. Pilots reported destruction of eight other trucks in a convoy 33 miles northwest of Dong Hoi, 10 cargo barges eight miles southeast of Vinh and six boxcars on a siding 37 miles southwest of Thanh Hoa.

The U.S. spokesman said the big convoy caught near the Mu Gia pass Monday and Tuesday was blocked by a landslide and the destruction of several bridges caused by earlier raids. He said a lone North Vietnamese working to clear the landslide continued to operate a road grader all through the 10 hours of Monday's raids.

Jamaica Vote Ends Era

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Jamaica's Labor party easily retained control of the government in the general election Tuesday, but the voting marked the end of a political era for the young island nation in the Caribbean.

Returns Tuesday night gave the generally conservative Laborites at least 31 of the 53 seats in Parliament to 19 for the People's National party. A communications breakdown delayed returns for the other three seats. The Laborites had 26 of the 45 seats in the old Parliament.

The results brought down the curtain on a sometimes bloody and violent political period dominated by two men: Laborite Prime Minister Sir William Alexander Bustamante, 84 and ailing, and his first cousin, Norman Washington Manley of the People's party, who will be 74 next July 4.

GOP Weighs Site For Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans, already offered $800,000 by Miami Beach for the privilege of entertaining the 1968 GOP nominating convention, plan now to consider non-financial factors before selecting a site.

Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss told a news conference Tuesday that money offers wouldn't be the overriding factor in picking a convention location.

Break Up Elegant Bookmaking Joint

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Authorities led by State Attorney Richard Gerstein sledge-hammered their way into a luxurious North Miami home Tuesday night and shattered what Gerstein said was a nationwide multimillion-dollar bookmaking operation. Authorities arrested Martin P. Kane, 44, who Gerstein said had just accepted more than $250,000 in bets over the phone in two hours before the raid.

Celler Wants Unanimity On Powell

Claude Pepper Reported To Be Main Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP)—With one member insisting that Adam Clayton Powell be expelled from Congress, a House committee tries again today to reach unanimous agreement on lesser punishment of severe censure plus pay penalties.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., admitted after all-day sessions Tuesday that the nine-member committee's failure to conclude its deliberations was due to his desire to achieve unanimity on the recommendation which must go to the House by Thursday night.

Celler said "we may have to do some compromising," and added "I will bend over backward to get a unanimous report."

The committee plans to stay in session today until it concludes its work.

Rep. Claude D. Pepper, D-Fla., was reported the major obstacle to unanimity, contending within and outside the committee that Powell's alleged official misconduct is serious enough to warrant his expulsion from the House.

Members of the committee who tend to favor censure rather than expulsion argue that expelling Powell would make him a martyr and that he would quickly be returned to the House in the special election that would take place to fill his vacant seat.

The committee's ranking Republican Rep. Arch A. Moore of West Virginia, said agreement had been reached on some major issues before the committee.

One of these is believed to be that Powell should be seated before being punished if expelled. Members are understood to be anxious to avoid a possible court challenge of any move to exclude Powell, who apparently meets age, citizenship and in-habitancy requirements of the Constitution.

Exclusion before Powell is seated would require only majority approval. Expulsion after his seating would require two-thirds approval.

Pepper told reporters Tuesday that "if a man is bad enough to be disciplined so severely, he ought to be expelled."

The current plan by supporters of the censure move is to combine the seating censure and all penalties into one resolution which would then require a simple majority for adoption. The matter is expected to come before the House next Tuesday.

One likely part of Powell's punishment is expected to be a plan to withhold from his salary some $33,000 in government funds which he is alleged to have converted to his own use.

Police Probe Theft Reports

A series of minor thefts have been reported to Circleville Police during the last few days.

One of the thefts was reported Tuesday by Eli Starkey of 133 York St. He said a double blade axe with a five pound head was taken.

Ralph Hoffman of 429 S. Court St. reported the loss of a 12-gauge shotgun from his house, taken during the last three days.

He said the gun was taken from its leather case in a closet at his home.

An assortment of other incidents related to thefts in the area are presently under investigation by police.

Neighbors Douse Fire in House

Neighbors of William McGlone of Muhlenberg Twp. doused a fire discovered about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at his home.

The fire started near the chimney of the home and is believed caused by a faulty flue. Sam Morgan, Route 1, Williamsport, notified the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department of the blaze.

The house is owned by the Tootle Estate. Damage was not extensive.

Another ordinance passed authorized the service director to advertise for bids for furnishing certain street repair materials to the city for fiscal year 1967. The contracts will be awarded on an if-and-when-needed basis.

A similar measure, in the form of a resolution, directed the board of public utilities to advertise for bids for cast iron pipe, valves and fittings for this year.

Speed, OMV Cases Listed By Court

Docket cases Tuesday in Circleville Municipal Court were of a varied nature. Several were for excessive speed.

Jack W. Burton of Ashville was charged by the State Patrol for operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was fined $150 plus court costs, sentenced to three days in the County Jail, and had his driver's license suspended for six months.

In a warning to would-be offenders the court moved for more stringent action against those who insist upon driving without an operator's license—and to those who permit it with their vehicles.

Louise W. Cantrell of Circleville, cited for no operator's license, was fined $25 and costs. The car owner, Thomas Fout, also was cited for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate the vehicle. He was fined $50 and costs.

Three persons cited for passing stop signs were David C. Pritchard of Lancaster, $15 and costs; Charles E. Brooks, 27, of 729 S. Court St., $15 and costs; Charles W. Parker of Amanda, $10 and costs.

Excessive speed was the violation in other cases. There were the usual 10 to 15 mile an hour over the limit. Cited were:

Gary A. Albright of Marysville, $10 and costs; Carl E. Rawlins of Columbus, $10 and costs; Charles Altizer Jr., Cleveland, $15 and costs; Gerald K. DeVito, Waverly, $15 and costs; John L. Grabans, 24, of 923 1/2 S. Clinton St., $15 and costs.

None Injured In Collisions

Circleville Police investigated an accident 5:56 p. m. Tuesday when the autos of Larry A. Whaley, 18, Williamsport and Sharon E. McDonald, 26, of Amanda were involved in a collision on Mingo and Main Sts. Minor damage resulted to both vehicles.

The second accident, in which three cars were involved, was at Main and Pickaway Sts., at 9:32 a. m. today. A vehicle driven by John D. Robinson of Route 3 was struck by an auto operated by Van Smith, 76, of 382 Walnut St., police said.

The driver of the third auto was Edward Hulse, 23, of 601 E. Mount St. Officers said damage to autos was slight. No citations were issued.

In the general discussion period, solon John Jenkins suggested local taxi cabs be subjected to a thorough safety inspection. His proposal is expected to get more study.

Jenkins also outlined a program of safety goals that should be sought in 1967. Included were pleas to support pedestrian crosswalk measures, action against illegal left turns and steps dealing with power mower, home and bicycle safety.

SIMISON offered a recommendation that councilmen compile and submit lists of proposed improvements concerning local streets and utility services.

The lawmaker session ended with a lively debate on what approach the city should pursue regarding fluoridation of water. Solon Joseph Bell suggested action be taken to speed up such a program here.

City utilities head Ervin Leist, assuming a neutral position on the fluoridation program, indicated the process could be added at little or no additional expense.

Sewer Land Appropriation Move Starts

City Council enacted legislation Tuesday night declaring its intention to appropriate property easements that would become a part of the North Storm Sewer Improvement project.

The proposed easement condemnation procedure involves land owned by Ralph Meinfelter and Robert Elser. According to previous legislation adopted by council, the sewer project's main trunk line would extend over and through their property.

Several attempts to resolve the easement question through lengthy negotiation between both parties—council and the property owners—failed to produce an agreement. Legislation declaring the storm sewer project a necessity was approved by the city lawmakers in 1963.

Additional delays were encountered when numerous other property owners within the project area offered opposition in regard to assessments and other provisions of the project.

CITY officials say the purpose of the sewer system is to prevent flooding of streets and residential premises located within the proposed sewer system.

The easement sought on the Meinfelter property is described as a strip of land 10 feet in width and extending a distance of approximately 140 feet, along with a temporary easement of 40 feet in width for working purposes.

A similar strip extending 2,095 feet is being sought on the Elser property, along with a temporary working easement like the one on the Meinfelter land.

2 Enemy Attacks Smash Company Setting Up Base

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. Company of infantry suffered heavy casualties in two Communist mortar attacks during the night as it was setting up a base camp in the central highlands facing the Cambodian border, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

A spokesman said the company of 178 men of the U.S. 4th Infantry division was hit by heavy mortar shelling 41 miles southwest of Kontum City. The term heavy casualties usually means a unit is no longer an effective fighting force.

Four 4th Division tanks in the same area beat off a close-quarter attack by Communist suicide troops who climbed aboard the armored vehicles. The tank crews raked each other's turrets with machine-gun fire to clear off the Communists, and U.S. headquarters said the tankmen sustained no casualties and only light damage to three tanks.

It was the first time reported in the Vietnam war that the enemy climbed onto tanks although this was a tactic frequently employed by the Communists in the Korean war.

To the south, waves of high-flying U.S. B52 bombers pounded War Zone C in four raids against the major Viet Cong jungle stronghold where its national headquarters is believed located close to the Cambodian border.

The big Stratoforters, each unloading up to 30 tons of explosives, hit at base camps and fortified positions in Tay Ninh Province in successive raids from midnight until dawn.

There was no official explanation for the intensified bombing which in the past has sometimes preceded a major ground campaign. U.S. headquarters today announced the end of Operation Gadsden in C Zone and said 161 Communists had been killed since Feb. 2.

In air action over North Vietnam, American pilots kept up their assault on Communist truck convoys Tuesday for the second day. Fliers claimed 17 more supply vehicles knocked out at the Mu Gia Pass, bringing their two-day total to 103 destroyed or damaged.

About 210 U.S. fighter-bombers flew 70 missions against North Vietnam Tuesday. Pilots reported destruction of eight other trucks in a convoy 53 miles northwest of Dong Hoi, 10 cargo barges eight miles southeast of Vinh and six boxcars on a siding 37 miles southwest of Thanh Hoa.

The U.S. spokesman said the big convoy caught near the Mu Gia pass Monday and Tuesday was blocked by a landslide and the destruction of several bridges caused by earlier raids. He said a lone North Vietnamese working to clear the landslide continued to operate a road grader all through the 10 hours of Monday's raids.

Which Is Man?

Moby Joe a great whale that attracted the attention of millions, is apparently dead. Some days ago, the huge mammal swam from the icy seas over a ledge at high tide into a Newfoundland inlet. The tide fell and it couldn't get out. It was trapped.

Some of the residents of the remote area had a lot of fun. They danced and shouted on the banks and fired hundreds of rifle bullets into the monster. It lashed and writhed. This was great sport.

A writer, Farley Mowat, heard about it, appealed to the Newfoundland government for help. Officials at once provided great quantities of food. Press dispatches relayed the narrative of Moby Joe over the continent and abroad.

Bullet wounds had produced huge and dangerous infections. There were new appeals for help. Medical doctors and biologists from as far away as California were consulted and massive vials of antibiotics and syringes were on the way. It was too late.

This is another of those incomprehensible riddles of the human animal. Which is man?

The dancing gunners who had such a gay time torturing the whale with bullets, insensitive to its torment? Or those who mustered all the ingenuity of twentieth century science to try to save its life?

Medical Advice

Every year about this time some distinguished member of the medical profession can be counted upon to come to the aid of the middle-aged male. This year is no exception. What follows are direct quotes from the public pronouncements of Dr. Morton Shulman, Toronto's chief croner:

"If you're over 40 and not used to exercise, don't shovel snow."

"If there are no children and your wife's in good shape, you can always suggest she try it. There are statistics to show women are not a susceptible to heart attacks as men."

Dr. Shulman, who is 41 and admits to being in good shape, practices what he preaches. He won't shovel snow. He has a snow blower which cost him $180.

However, as most middle-aged men cannot afford a snowblower, it seems to be up to you, madam, the next time the walks need to be cleared.

So You're Sane, Are You?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the problems everyone has to solve today is whether the world is getting balmer—or you are.

The best way is to make a periodic checkup on yourself. To determine whether you have retained or lost your marbles, figure out your own sanity quotient periodically.

How can you do this? Quite simply.

For example, here is a sample quiz by which you can rate yourself:

Are you able to sit down and reason with your own children intelligently, thus helping them to improve their ways?

If you had it to do all over again, would you be perfectly willing to relive your life exactly as you have up until now?

Can you smile tolerantly when one of the guys you are playing golf with starts jabbering just as you try a game-winning putt on the 18th hole?

When your neighbor buys a new car more expensive than the one you own, does it make you feel warm all over because someone you know is getting ahead?

Are you pleased if, while preparing a backyard cookout, one of the guests steps forward with a suggestion on how to make the charcoal fire burn better?

Should someone offer to fix a traffic ticket for you, would you become righteously indignant because you feel the law ought to take its course in such matters?

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER S. COLEMAN, M.D.

Why do some people with stand cold weather better than others?

I recall a recent remarkable story of survival when a young woman, after a plane accident, was exposed to bitter cold and hunger yet lived to recount the harrowing experience. Many people might not have lived after exposure, for so long a period, to wind, ice and snow.

It may have been her youth, her excellent physical condition and her psychological will to live. There are many other factors involved.

It is known that the people with poor blood circulation cannot withstand severe cold. Even young people whose circulation is poor because of anemia, kidney ailments, glandular disturbances and excess tobacco suffer in cold weather.

Nutritional and vitamin deficiencies and a lowered function of the thyroid gland (hypothyroidism) can make some people react to cold weather.

It may be surprising that heavy clothing may be too tight and hinder proper circulation. Light woolen, well-fitting garments may be better protection.

It is wise not to overexpose oneself to the cold, especially if by past experience one does not tolerate it well. Frostbite, which I have written about recently, can be a dangerous sequel to carelessness.

What is the difference between a sty and a chalazion of the eyelid?

A sty, or hordeolum, is a tiny abscess that forms in the glands near the eyelashes. Styes tend to occur in crops and their recurrence can sometimes be prevented with antibiotic ointments used under a doctor's directions.

A chalazion is really a cyst of one of the Meibomian glands. A sty is usually close to the margin of the eyelid and points in the direction of a hair. The chalazion is farther removed from the lid margin.

Styes usually improve with heat and wet dressings. A chalazion rarely heals completely without operation. This surgery is rather simple and can usually be performed in an eye specialist's office under local anesthesia.

Is it true that the noise of modern civilization can cause heart disease?

Ideologies Take It on Chin

By John Chamberlain

In real life nothing ever works out as the ideologues expect.

For example, only a few short months ago the ideologues were saying that Mao Tse-tung's Red Chinese government belonged in the UN because "you can't ignore 700 million people." But ever since the "Red China lobby" campaign to bring Mao to the East River flopped because of the unforeseen defection of some of the African UN nations it has become more and more apparent that the Maoists do not speak for China.

The simple fact is that the "cultural revolution" on the Chinese mainland is failing. Mao is supposed to be the peasant leader, and the Mao line is that the rural parts of the world will eventually surround the citified areas and force Communism upon them. But the peasants everywhere want control of their own plots of ground. They are forcing themselves on Brezhnev in Soviet Russia, making enlarged kitchen gardens a precondition of better farm production all around. And, according to everything the China-watchers in Hongkong can learn, they are using the troubles in China to gain in the provinces that Mao has denounced as "revisionism" when it happens in Russia and Yugoslavia.

Meanwhile, in the Chinese cities, workers espouse the heresy of "economism," meaning they want a better shake for themselves out of factory production. Thus they are actually on the side of Mao's ideological enemies.

It is too early to know whether Red China is about to break up into several quasi-autonomous regional districts, each dominated by its own warlord general, or whether some peacemaker (perhaps Chou En-lai, the eternal "centrist") will succeed in papering over the conflicts by compelling Mao to backtrack on his own type of "Mao-think." But the Hong kong report that local military commanders in the provinces of Szechwan, Yunnan, Kansu, and Sinkiang have been wooing the peasants by promising them the benefits of the "economism" that Mao has denounced could be a significant straw in the wind. Communism will yet turn out to be a reversible phenomenon.

If the ideologues are being proved wrong about Asia, they are also taking their lumps in the United States. The ideologues have insisted on a $1-an-hour minimum wage for farm workers. Sensible economists such as Yale Brozen and Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago predicted some time ago that a high legal minimum wage would force marginal workers on to the relief rolls thus defeating the ideologues' own aims. And this, as it turns out, is just what is happening throughout the Deep South.

In Mississippi the cotton planters, through their Delta Council, have announced that they "can't afford to have much cotton chopping done at $1 an hour." The prediction is that thousands of rural workers will be displaced by chemical weed killers and by the further mechanization of cotton picking. Inevitably the displaced workers and their families will join the trek to northern cities, particularly to New York where there is no residence requirement for relief. Maybe the automation of the cotton plantation would have come in any event, but without the minimum wage there would have been a more orderly and humane transition.

The ideologues have also taken it on the chin in their attempt to force beauty on the American countryside by law. For example, if you go north to ski country in Vermont, where federally assisted highway building is lacing the land with some excellent new highways, you won't see any billboards. But on the distant mountain sides, blazoned in ugly lights, you will see announcements of various kinds. It would have been less offensive esthetically to put up an occasional attractively printed sign right along the highway announcing the virtues of the Big Bromley or the Mad River Glen ski area.

The aims of the ideologues are often praiseworthy. But we might achieve them with less disruption if people would use persuasion to change customs, not attempt to make society over by force of law.

Try and Stop Me

A CONGRESSMAN, shaken by what he had seen in a ten-day tour of Viet Nam, sought some relaxation in Japan before returning to Washington. In Tokyo, he ran into a high-flying newspaperman from his hometown, and was immediately steered to the most expensive restaurant in the entire Far East. As the meal came to a close, the news man summoned the waiter, and struggling over every syllable, spoke to him in Japanese.

The congressman remarked kiddingly, "Is that all the Japanese you've learned here in over two years?" "It's enough," the news man assured him. "I told him to give you the check."

A one-time president of the New York Central railroad was taken to hear a sermon by the then-Archbishop of Canterbury that dragged on for a full hour. "What do you think of our Archbishop?" he was asked later. "He's excellent," nodded the railroad man, "but he has very poor terminal facilities."

QUICKIES: Hollywood wits are capitalizing on Governor Ronald Reagan's alleged presidential aspirations. Pat Buttram, for instance, claims, "He's learning fast; I've already seen him pick up his agent by the ears."

In the East, another au courant comic, Pat Henry, notes, "It's now almost a year and a half since the New York World's Fair closed—and Bob Moses has just announced that the Belgian Pavilion is completed."

So You're Sane, Are You?

By Hal Boyle

t NEW YORK (AP) — One of the problems everyone has to solve today is whether the world is getting balmer—or you are.

The best way is to make a periodic checkup on yourself. To determine whether you have retained or lost your marbles, figure out your own sanity quotient periodically.

How can you do this? Quite simply.

For example, here is a sample quiz by which you can rate yourself:

Are you able to sit down and reason with your own children intelligently, thus helping them to improve their ways?

If you had it to do all over again, would you be perfectly willing to relive your life exactly as you have up until now?

Can you smile tolerantly when one of the guys you are playing golf with starts jabbering just as you try a game-winning putt on the 18th hole?

When your neighbor buys a new car more expensive than the one you own, does it make you feel warm all over because someone you know is getting ahead?

Are you pleased if, while preparing a backyard cookout, one of the guests steps forward with a suggestion on how to make the charcoal fire burn better?

Should someone offer to fix a traffic ticket for you, would you become righteously indignant because you feel the law ought to take its course in such matters?

tax forms each year, do you have the quiet satisfaction of someone who has done a good hard honest job?

Do you make it a policy to pay up all your bills at least a week ahead of time to avoid any possible confusion?

Are you the kind of fellow who refuses to bet on a sure thing because you think it's unfair to take money from suckers?

Are you the type of husband about whom other wives say to their own mates, "Why can't you be more like him?"

Do you make it a point never to lose your temper, no matter what the provocation?

Views on Television — Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Griffith, Don Knotts and Ernie Ford can draw all they want to, and kick dirt and proclaim that they are country bumptkins.

What they are is a trio of very professional performers who work delightfully together. Tuesday night's "Andy Griffiths' Uptown-Downtown Show," an hour special, was unpretentious and silky smooth.

The star joked a lot, sang a bit. One comedy sketch was pretty funny. There were the inevitable rock 'n' roll numbers by a young guitar-playing group.

Griffith steered pretty clear of his weekly sheriff's character. The high point of the show for this viewer came when he did one of his back-country literary lectures that started with an explanation of how Confucius struck it rich by inventing fortune cookies and somehow wound up with the revelation that Shakespeare didn't do a very good job of mowing his lawn.

The hour was as relaxing and friendly as a neighborly visit.

ABC, in the first announcement of a new program for next season, will replace its long-running "Combat" series on Tuesday nights with another war series. The new one is called "Garrison's Guerrillas" and centers on the military exploits of a squad recruited from American prisoners.

Heading the cast will be Ron Harper, an attractive young actor who has turned up successively in "87th Precinct," "Wendy and Me," and "The Jean Arthur Show." Each lasted, at the outside, one season. ABC is also committed to a series called "Off to See the Wizard," a sort of anthology from a major film studio that will consist of new material and some old films. The network also has picked up an off-beat Western series starring Walter Brennan.

For the second week in a row, NBC will produce two editions of "Meet the Press." The regular half-hour show—1:30 p.m. EST—Sunday will be an interview with Gen. Earl G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It will be followed—3-4 p.m.—by a special show based on the current controversy over the Central Intelligence Agency. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D. Pa., Robert Amory Jr., former deputy Director for intelligence of the CIA, and Sam Brown of the National Students Association will be among those questioned.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. GOLDSMAN, M.D.

Why do some people withstand cold weather better than others?

I recall a recent remarkable story of survival when a young woman, after a plane accident, was exposed to bitter cold and hunger yet lived to recount the harrowing experience. Many people might not have lived after exposure, for so long a period, to wind, ice and snow.

It may have been her youth, her excellent physical condition and her psychological will to live. There are many other factors involved.

It is known that the people with poor blood circulation cannot withstand severe cold. Even young people whose circulation is poor because of anemia, kidney ailments, glandular disturbances and excess tobacco suffer in cold weather.

Nutritional and vitamin deficiencies and a lowered function of the thyroid gland (hypothyroidism) can make some people react to cold weather.

It may be surprising that heavy clothing may be too tight and hinder proper circulation. Light woolen, well-fitting garments may be better protection.

It is wise not to overexpose oneself to the cold, especially if by past experience one does not tolerate it well. Frostbite, which I have written about recently, can be a dangerous sequel to carelessness.

What is the difference between a sty and a chalazion of the eyelid?

A sty, or hordeolum, is a tiny abscess that forms in the glands near the eyelashes. Styes tend to occur in crops and their recurrence can sometimes be prevented with antibiotic ointments used under a doctor's directions.

A chalazion is really a cyst of one of the Meibomian glands. A sty is usually close to the margin of the eyelid and points in the direction of a hair. The chalazion is farther removed from the lid margin.

Styes usually improve with heat and wet dressings. A chalazion rarely heals completely without operation. This surgery is rather simple and can usually be performed in an eye specialist's office under local anesthesia.

Ideologues Take It on Chin

By John Chamberlain

In real life nothing ever works out as the ideologues expect.

For example, only a few short months ago the ideologues were saying that Mao Tse-tung's Red Chinese government belonged in the UN because "you can't ignore 700 million people." But ever since the "Red China lobby" campaign to bring Mao to the East River flopped because of the unforeseen defection of some of the African UN nations it has become more and more apparent that the Maoists do not speak for China.

The simple fact is that the "cultural revolution" on the Chinese mainland is failing. Mao is supposed to be the peasant leader, and the Mao line is that the rural parts of the world will eventually surround the citified areas and force Communism upon them. But the peasants everywhere want control of their own plots of ground. They are forcing themselves on Brezhnev in Soviet Russia, making enlarged kitchen gardens a precondition of better farm production all around. And, according to everything the China-watchers in Hongkong can learn, they are using the troubles in China to gain in the provinces that Mao has denounced as "revisionism" when it happens in Russia and Yugoslavia.

Meanwhile, in the Chinese cities, workers espouse the heresy of "economism," meaning they want a better shake for themselves out of factory production. Thus they are actually on the side of Mao's ideological enemies.

It is too early to know whether Red China is about to break up into several quasi-autonomous regional districts, each dominated by its own warlord general, or whether some peacemaker (perhaps Chou En-lai, the eternal "centrist") will

PROBATE COURT, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO No. 15312

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE J. W. Adkins Jr., Administrator with the Will annexed of the Estate of Ida J. McCorkle, deceased, Plaintiff, vs. Defendants,

In pursuance of an order of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, I will offer for sale at public auction on Monday, the 13th day of March, 1967, at 2:00 o'clock P. M., at the door of the Courthouse in Circleville, Ohio, the following described real estate situated in the City of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio and bounded and described as follows:

Being Lot Number Two Hundred and Seventy-two (272) according to the revised numbering of the lots of said City, Excepting therefrom, Twenty-eight (28) feet and Seven (7) inches off the North side of said Lot together with the right of egress and ingress over the part excepted by being a strip of land three feet wide and extending East along the South side of the part so excepted for a distance of Seventy-five (75) feet to the premises herein conveyed but said right cease and revert back to the part of said lot so excepted when the full width of the part of said lot so conveyed by this deed is no longer covered by the present dwelling house.

Said premises are appraised at Six Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($6500.00) and must be sold for not less than two-thirds (2/3) of said appraised value. Terms of sale are Ten (10 per cent) percent of purchase price on day of sale and balance in full upon confirmation of sale and delivery of deed.

succeed in papering over the conflicts by compelling Mao to backtrack on his own type of "Mao-think." But the Hong kong report that local military commanders in the provinces of Szechwan, Yunnan, Kansu, and Sinkiang have been wooing the peasants by promising them the benefits of the "economism" that Mao has denounced could be a significant straw in the wind. Communism will yet turn out to be a reversible phenomenon.

If the ideologues are being proved wrong about Asia, they are also taking their lumps in the United States. The ideologues have insisted on a $1-an-hour minimum wage for farm workers. Sensible economists such as Yale Brozen and Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago predicted some time ago that a high legal minimum wage would force marginal workers on to the relief rolls thus defeating the ideologues' own aims. And this, as it turns out, is just what is happening throughout the Deep South.

In Mississippi the cotton planters, through their Delta Council, have announced that they "can't afford to have much cotton chopping done at $1 an hour." The prediction is that thousands of rural workers will be displaced by chemical weed killers and by the further mechanization of cotton picking. Inevitably the displaced workers and their families will join the trek to northern cities, particularly to New York where there is no residence requirement for relief. Maybe the automation of the cotton plantation would have come in any event, but without the minimum wage there would have been a more orderly and humane transition.

The ideologues have also taken it on the chin in their attempt to force beauty on the American countryside by law. For example, if you go north to ski country in Vermont, where a federally assisted highway building is lacing the land with some excellent new highways, you won't see any billboards. But on the distant mountain sides, blazoned in ugly lights, you will see announcements of various kinds. It would have been less offensive esthetically to put up an occasional attractively printed sign right along the highway announcing the virtues of the Big Bromley or the Mad River Glen ski area.

The aims of the ideologues are often praiseworthy. But we might achieve them with less disruption if people would use persuasion to change customs, not attempt to make society over by force of law.

A CONGRESSMAN, shaken by what he had seen in a ten-day tour of Viet Nam, sought some relaxation in Japan before returning to Washington. In Tokyo, he ran into a high-flying newspaperman from his hometown, and was immediately steered to the most expensive restaurant in the entire Far East. As the meal came to a close, the news man summoned the waiter, and struggling over every syllable, spoke to him in Japanese.

The congressman remarked kiddingly, "Is that all the Japanese you've learned here in over two years?"

"It's enough," the news man assured him. "I told him to give you the check."

A one-time president of the New York Central railroad was taken to hear a sermon by the then-Archbishop of Canterbury that dragged on for a full hour. "What do you think of our Archbishop?" he was asked later. "He's excellent," nodded the railroad man, "but he has very poor terminal facilities."

Shoup Says He Stands By Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commandant, said Tuesday he stood by his statements questioning U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

He has been quoted as saying he didn't think that Southeast Asia was worth American lives. Bue he pointed out in a telephone interview today that he also said that maybe the people were.

His reported remarks in full were: "I want to tell you, I don't think the whole of Southeast Asia, as related to the present and future safety and freedom of the people of this country, is worth the life or limb of a single American. But maybe the people are and maybe the people of South America are, too. And maybe that's confusing."

"I believe that if we had and would keep our dirty, bloody, dollar-crooked fingers out of the business of these nations so full of depressed, exploited people, they will arrive at a solution of their own. That they design and want. That they fight and work for. And if unfortunately their revolution must be of the violent type because the 'haves' refuse to share with the 'have-nots' by any peaceful method, at least what they get will be their own, and not the American style, which they don't want and above all don't want crammed down their throats by Americans."

Shoup's remarks were made in a speech at the 10th annual Junior College World Affairs Day in Los Angeles May 14, 1966. Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., distributed it in a press release Monday, saying Shoup joined him in questioning whether escalation of the war in Vietnam is in the best interests of the United States.

Shoup is now retired and lives in Arlington, Va.

Japanese Claims CIA Forced Him To Mistranslate

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese television producer said Tuesday he was asked by an American to make false translations of political remarks made by American folk singer Joan Baez during her recent visit to Japan.

Japanese newspapers reported that the producer, Ichiro Takasaki, told them he was "pressured" by an agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency named Harold Cooper, but after this was published Takasaki said: "I don't know exactly whether he was in the CIA, CIE or something. I'm a musician."

The U.S. Embassy denied that any employee of the U.S. government had attempted to interfere with the singer during her tour of Japan last month. A spokesman said it had no employee named Harold Cooper.

Exiled 'Ghost Candidate' Haunts France's DeGaulle

By HARVEY HUDSON
LYON, France (AP) — Jacques Soustelle, a turbulent and discordant echo from Charles de Gaulle's past, is making a spiritual return to France to haunt his old hero.

Soustelle lives in exile, threatened with arrest if he steps onto French soil, but he is a candidate for a deputy's seat in next month's legislative elections. He will be the "ghost candidate" among 2,244 aspirants seeking 470 places in the National Assembly.

"It's a big gamble," says Jean Miriot, a Lyon Municipal councillor, who is one of Soustelle's campaign managers.

"This is a serious candidacy. We think there's a chance to win but we're prepared to lose. We're fighting at a tremendous disadvantage. We have only limited resources, while the Gaullist opposition has the use of radio and television and plenty of money."

Although expert opinion is divided, Soustelle as a winner might immediately be covered by parliamentary immunity so he could walk into Paris as a free man. But a Gaullist-dominated Parliament could vote to lift Soustelle's immunity.

Edouard Charrett, a member of the Gaullist party, stays firmly "It's my seat and I intend to keep it."

Charrett claims to be the political father of Soustelle in Lyon and shrugs off the unexpected candidacy as a sort of bad political joke by an errant and ungrateful son.

Soustelle, 55, is an incarnation of France's drama over the Algerian war.

He followed Gen. de Gaulle to London in 1940 after the fall of France and worked in the Free French intelligence services. An archeologist of repute, through a study of the Aztec civilization in Mexico, he plunged into politics after the liberation of France.

Soustelle was elected a deputy in 1951 from Lyon, and was re-elected in 1956. During those days of constantly changing governments of the Fourth Republic, he was one of the chief Gaullist spokesmen in Parliament and usually acted as the Gaullist hatchet man when the time came to topple a cabinet.

In 1955, he was appointed governor general of Algeria by Premier Pierre Mendes-France. French residents of Algeria protested that he was to far to the left. Within months, the settlers had won Soustelle their views and accepted him as their champion.

In May, 1958, when the Algerian settlers and the army were boiling up to open revolt, the teetering government in Paris put a guard on Soustelle's Paris apartment. Soustelle hid in the trunk of a car, fled to Geneva and fled to Algeria. There he helped channel the directionless revolution into a clear call for the return of De Gaulle, hailed then as the savior of French Algeria.

As a reward Soustelle was named minister of information when De Gaulle formed a government. Algerian terrorists fired on his car near the Arch of Triumph.

Sen. Brooke Wants To Visit Vietnam

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, V.I. (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., says he hopes to visit North and South Vietnam soon and to interview North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

In a talk at the College of the Virgin Islands he said he sensed "a sincere effort" by President Johnson to negotiate peace. He added that a cessation of bombing of North Vietnam "would show a genuine and sincere effort on our part and would shift the burden" to the Communists.

Gaulle was moving toward Algerian independence, Soustelle broke with him, fled France and worked politically to support the angry settlers who saw Algeria slipping through their hands.

He has been in exile since 1960.

Shortage of Engineer Grads Major Threat, Educator Says

By ROB WOOD

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The nation's space program may lag. The design and construction of dams, skyscrapers, bridges and highways may stall. The power lawn mower may be lacking in quality and the television sets in quantity.

These are some of the dangers foreseen by Dr. Ralph E. Fadum unless the United States sharply increases its number of graduating engineers.

Fadum is dean of the School of Engineering at North Carolina State University, vice chairman of the U.S. Army Scientific Advisory Panel, and has served in various capacities with the Department of Defense, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Ford Foundation.

In a society geared to science and technology, Fadum said in an interview the need for engineers continues to grow at an alarming rate.

But, he added, the number of students seeking engineering degrees increases only a fraction each year and is, in fact, much lower now than in 1950.

Seventeen years ago, he said, the 160 universities with accredited programs awarded 48,160 engineering degrees. Last year the figure had dropped to 35,000.

"This is enough," Fadum said, "to keep the status quo and far below what is needed to meet the demands of the future."

The shortage of engineers, Fadum predicted, will be reflected in the nation's missile and rocket systems, in its production of jet airplanes, in the launching of satellites.

Even more important, he continued, it will be mirrored in the way of life Americans not only expect but demand; in the availability and sound operation of washing machines, stereophonic record players, refrigerators; in the safety and speed of construction of highways and bridges that span the rivers and the skyscrapers that house the office headquarters.

"If the shortage of engineers grows, as the public consumption and governmental programs increase, there must necessarily follow a decline in the availability of certain items and a regression in the standard of work performed. In other words, there will not be as many washing machines as now and they won't work as well," Fadum said.

As a comparison, Fadum returned to the 1950 figure when the United States produced 48,160 engineers. That same year the Soviet Union had 37,343 graduating engineers. A decade later, the United States reported 33,173 engineering graduates; the Soviet Union 120,132.

The refusal of many high school graduates to seek engineering careers, Fadum explained, is prompted by several factors, including:

1. "Engineering is recognized as a rather difficult field, and many youths today refuse to accept a challenge as they did in bygone years."

2. "The layman, the parent, the high school counselor, have a misconception of engineering. They picture a man in boots looking through a transit. But an engineer is a man with a knowledge of math and the natural sciences who applies it with judgment to develop ways to utilize, economically, the materials and forces of nature for the benefit of mankind."

3. "And, there are some who believe the youth of today, in an effort to insure his college education without interruption by the draft, selects a course of study in which he can maintain good grades."

To solve the shortage, Fadum said, the public must be made aware of the advantages "and excitement of engineering."

A graduate with a bachelor degree in engineering, Fadum said, can receive an average of $672 a month to start, with an unlimited future. With a master's degree, the pay scale rises to $800 a month, and with a doctor's degree to $1,000-1,100.

Miami Beach, Frisco Vie To Host GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miami Beach and San Francisco bid for the 1968 Republican National Convention Tuesday amid reports the Florida resort city will offer $1 million to become host.

San Francisco paid $650,000 to host the 1964 Republican convention.

The reported $1 million offer by Miami Beach failed to dim enthusiasm of representatives from Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles and Philadelphia, who met Monday with the GOP site committee.

The Republicans have established minimum standards for any city expecting to hold the convention. Among them are adequate meeting facilities, a minimum $350,000 to defray expense and the availability of 10,000 rooms within a short distance of the convention hall.

Only Philadelphia, among those making presentations Monday, offered more than the monetary minimum when it bid $750,000.

The four cities which appeared Monday all said they expected the city with the best facilities to get the convention. Each claimed it has the best

"If the shortage of engineers grows, as the public consumption and governmental programs increase, there must necessarily follow a decline in the availability of certain items and a regression in the standard of work performed. In other words, there will not be as many washing machines as now and they won't work as well," Fadum said.

As a comparison, Fadum returned to the 1950 figure when the United States produced 48,160 engineers. That same year the Soviet Union had 37,343 graduating engineers. A decade later, the United States reported 33,173 engineering graduates; the Soviet Union 120,132.

The refusal of many high school graduates to seek engineering careers, Fadum explained, is prompted by several factors, including:

1. "Engineering is recognized as a rather difficult field, and many youths today refuse to accept a challenge as they did in bygone years."

2. "The layman, the parent, the high school counselor, have a misconception of engineering. They picture a man in boots looking through a transit. But an engineer is a man with a knowledge of math and the natural sciences who applies it with judgment to develop ways to utilize, economically, the materials and forces of nature for the benefit of mankind."

3. "And, there are some who believe the youth of today, in an effort to insure his college education without interruption by the draft, selects a course of study in which he can maintain good grades."

To solve the shortage, Fadum said, the public must be made aware of the advantages "and excitement of engineering."

A graduate with a bachelor degree in engineering, Fadum said, can receive an average of $672 a month to start, with a unlimited future. With a master's degree, the pay scale rises to $800 a month, and with a doctor's degree to $1,000-1,100.

Shoup Says He Stands By Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commandant, said Tuesday he stood by his statements questioning U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

He has been quoted as saying he didn't think that Southeast Asia was worth American lives. Bue he pointed out in a telephone interview today that he also said that maybe the people were.

His reported remarks in full were: "I want to tell you, I don't think the whole of Southeast Asia, as related to the present and future safety and freedom of the people of this country, is worth the life or limb of a single American. But maybe the people are and maybe the people of South America are, too. And maybe that's confusing."

"I believe that if we had and would keep our dirty, bloody, dollar-crooked fingers out of the business of these nations so full of depressed, exploited people, they will arrive at a solution of their own. That they design and want. That they fight and work for. And unfortunately their revolution must be of the violent type because the 'haves' refuse to share with the 'have-nots' by any peaceful method, at least what they get will be their own, and not the American style, which they don't want and above all don't want crammed down their throats by Americans."

Shoup's remarks were made in a speech at the 10th annual Junior College World Affairs Day in Los Angeles May 14, 1966. Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., distributed it in a press release Monday, saying Shoup joined him in questioning whether escalation of the war in Vietnam is in the best interests of the United States.

Shoup is now retired and lives in Arlington, Va.

Japanese Claims CIA Forced Him To Mistranslate

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese television producer said Tuesday he was asked by an American to make false translations of political remarks made by American folk singer Joan Baez during her recent visit to Japan.

Japanese newspapers reported that the producer, Ichiro Takasaki, told them he was "pressured" by an agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency named Harold Cooper, but after this was published Takasaki said: "I don't know exactly whether he was in the CIA, CIE or something. I'm a musician."

The U.S. Embassy denied that any employee of the U.S. government had attempted to interfere with the singer during her tour of Japan last month. A spokesman said it had no employee named Harold Cooper.

Legion Auxiliary Still Conducting Lighter Project

The local American Legion Auxiliary has placed the project of repairing used cigarette lighters in the hands of the Veterans Hospital in Chillicothe.

The used lighters collected here will be used in the VA Hospital's Therapy Center.

The Auxiliary feels the project has a two-fold purpose. It provides veterans with a comfort item and also offers a project that is needed.

Persons with old lighters may deposit them in boxes displayed in many local stores. The boxes carry the Auxiliary emblem, along with words requesting help in aiding veterans back to a normal life.

Exiled 'Ghost Candidate' Haunts France's DeGaulle

By HARVEY HUDSON
LYON, France (AP) — Jacques Soustelle, a turbulent and discordant echo from Charles de Gaulle's past, is making a spiritual return to France to haunt his old hero.

Soustelle lives in exile, threatened with arrest if he steps onto French soil, but he is a candidate for a deputy's seat in next month's legislative elections. He will be the "ghost candidate" among 2,244 aspirants seeking 470 places in the National Assembly.

"It's a big gamble," says Jean Miriot, a Lyon Municipal councillor, who is one of Soustelle's campaign managers.

"This is a serious candidacy. We think there's a chance to win but we're prepared to lose. We're fighting at a tremendous disadvantage. We have only limited resources, while the Gaullist opposition has the use of radio and television and plenty of money."

Although expert opinion is divided, Soustelle as a winner might immediately be covered by parliamentary immunity so he could walk into Paris as a free man. But a Gaullist-dominated Parliament could vote to lift Soustelle's immunity.

Edouard Charrett, a member of the Gaullist party, stays firmly "It's my seat and I intend to keep it."

Charrett claims to be the political father of Soustelle in Lyon and shrugs off the unexpected candidacy as a sort of bad political joke by an errant and ungrateful son.

Soustelle, 55, is an incarnation of France's drama over the Algerian war.

He followed Gen. de Gaulle to London in 1940 after the fall of France and worked in the Free French intelligence services. An archeologist of repute, through a study of the Aztec civilization in Mexico, he plunged into politics after the liberation of France.

Soustelle was elected a deputy in 1951 from Lyon, and was re-elected in 1956. During those days of constantly changing governments of the Fourth Republic, he was one of the chief Gaullist spokesmen in Parliament and usually acted as the Gaullist hatchet man when the time came to topple a cabinet.

In 1955, he was appointed governor general of Algeria by Premier Pierre Mendes-France. French residents of Algeria protested that he was too far to the left. Within months, the settlers had won Soustelle their views and accepted him as their champion.

In May, 1958, when the Algerian settlers and the army were boiling up to open revolt, the teetering government in Paris put a guard on Soustelle's Paris apartment. Soustelle hid in the trunk of a car, fled to Geneva and flew to Algiers. There he helped channel the directionless revolution into a clear call for the return of De Gaulle, hailed then as the savior of French Algeria.

As a reward Soustelle was named minister of information when De Gaulle formed a government. Algerian terrorists fired on his car near the Arch of Triumph.

When it became clear that De

Sen. Brooke Wants To Visit Vietnam

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, V.I. (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., says he hopes to visit North and South Vietnam soon and to interview North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

In a talk at the College of the Virgin Islands he said he sensed "a sincere effort" by President Johnson to negotiate peace. He added that a cessation of bombing of North Vietnam "would show a genuine and sincere effort on our part and would shift the burden" to the Communists.

Gaulle was moving toward Algerian independence, Soustelle broke with him, fled France and worked politically to support the angry settlers who saw Algeria slipping through their hands. He has been in exile since 1960.

The local DAR Chapter, in observance of American History Month as proclaimed by Congress for the first time this year presented numerous awards during Tuesday's meeting at the Presbyterian Church.

These awards were given to pupils in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades for their essays on Great Naval Battles.

One hundred twenty-seven essays were written and judged by a committee composed of: Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood, chairman, Mrs. Leora Sayre, Mrs. J. L. Chilcote and Mrs. J. Austin Dowden. Medals were presented by Mrs. Greenwood to first place winners: Ann Yates, Mound St. school, fifth grade; Vanessa Mills, Pickaway Township School, sixth grade; Rhonda Wharton, Ashville Elementary School, seventh grade; Lisa McCoy, Washington School, eighth grade.

Certificates were awarded to second and third place winners in each grade, recipients were: Theodore Sill and Mary Ellen Frericks, St. Joseph's School, fifth grade; Jane Brudzinski and Deborah Redman, of St. Joseph's, sixth grade; Patricia May and Holliday Parker, St. Joseph's, seventh grade; Betty Jo Bolender and Betty Jo Rooker of Washington School, eighth grade.

One of the first place essays, "My Shot Began the Battle," the story of the Monitor and the Merrimac, was read by Ann Yates.

Tests on Good Citizenship, prepared by the National Committee of DAR, were given to two senior girls in each high school in the county and pins were awarded by Mrs. Kermit, Dountz, to the first place winners in each school. Receiving these awards were: Karen Gulick, Teays Valley; Nancy Fenstermaker, Westfall; Linda Gallion, Circleville and Brenda Kay Fausnaugh, Logan Elm.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Judd H. Dresbach regent. She was assisted by Mrs. Daniel Eitel, Chaplain; Mrs. Donald Woodward, who led the Pledge of Allegiance and Mrs. Martin Cromley who led singing of the National Anthem.

Mrs. Cromley presented a flute quartette composed of, Christia Hefflin, Becky Hoover, Bridget Haines and Linda Sanderson, under the direction of Mrs. William Pangburn, instrumental music director of the Teays Valley School District.

Following the meeting, the Regent and Mrs. Richard Hedges, vice regent, presided at the tea table. The table was centered by a beautiful red, white and blue flower arrangement presented by Mrs. Ada Lou Deal, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Stanley Beckett, a devoted member of the Pickaway Plains Chapter.

Thirty-five guests and forty members were present for the annual Guest Day Tea, arranged by Mrs. Stanley Bowers and Mrs. Paul Cromley, co-chairmen and their committee: Mrs. J. M. Hedges, Mrs. E. W. Hedges, Miss Kathryn Decker, Miss Frances Decker, Mrs. Russell McDill, Mrs. Paul Counts, Mrs. George Hamman Jr., Miss Mary Heffner, Mrs. Elliott Miller, Mrs. McClelland Newhouse, Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, Mrs. Beryl Stevenson, Mrs. Robert Graham, Mrs. Earl Wilson, Mrs. Charles Beckman, Mrs. O. J. Towers, Mrs. W. L. Mack, Mrs. Clarence Hott and Mrs. James Adams.

Thank you letters were read by Mrs. Paul Counts from the Kate Duncan Smith and Tamassee mountain schools, expressing appreciation for money and clothing sent by the local chapter, and from Mrs. Harry McGee and Mrs. Charles Pugsley who had been ill. A period of silence paid tribute to Mrs. George Roth Sr. who had been a member since 1937.

Music Program Presented By WSCS at Silver Tea

The Hedges Chapel Women's Society of Christian Service held their annual Silver Tea at the church recently with two-hundred guests in attendance.

The altar vases filled with spring flowers, given by Russell Hedges, in memory of his wife Erma and mother, and the beautiful new spring hats worn by the guests made a lovely setting for a most pleasant afternoon.

The guests were greeted at the door by George and Martha Washington portrayed by Dorothy Cormany and Louise Spear. Seating the guests were the Misses Jill Butt, Kathy Beers, Kay Hay and Vicki Neff.

Mrs. William Plum Jr., president, welcomed the guests and presented Mrs. Joseph Peters as program chairman.

The following musical program was presented. A vocal trio consisting of Nancy Collins, Miriam Purcell and Mary Ann Miller sang "Tea for Two" and "Sweetheart Tree." Linda Hickman was the accompanist.

A flute quartet from Walnut Jr. High School with Linda Sanderson, Bridget Haines, Christy Hefflin and Beck Hoover, played "The Children's Marching Song," "Aura Lee" and "Christ the Lord Is Risen." Mr. William Pangburn was the director.

A piano solo was given by Joyce Ann Barr, with her numbers being: "Impromptu" and "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Melissa Plum, Melissa Archer, Brenda Brinker and Joy Hoy, sang "The Lollipop Tree" accompanied by Mrs. David Dill.

"Moods in Contrast" was presented by the clarinet choir, consisting of: Martha Sark, Sandra Perrill, Garland Ison, Debbie Cook, Linda Dillon and Vernon Bolender, with Mr. John Crumley, directing.

A piano solo, "Melody of Love," was played by Karen Harmount.

"Valse Staccato" was presented by the flute quartet, with Becky Dumm, Becky Hoffman, Vivian Sheets and Pam Hartman, playing. Mr. John Crumley directed.

The Metta Larks sang, "Dry Bones" and "The Bells of St. Mary's."

The musical program ended with a skit, "As the Earth Spins," with Carolyn Peters, Metta Dill, Donna Fosnaugh and Louise Barr.

The guests were invited to the dining room for an hour of fellowship. The Tea table appointment in colors of pink and red was arranged by Mrs. Roy Frazier. Mrs. Judd Dresbach and Mrs. Martin Cromley presided at the table.

This annual social event is always one of the enjoyable highlights of the season. The Hedges Chapel women look forward to entertaining ladies from this and surrounding communities.

Rhodes Cancels Ice-Fishing Trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The mild weather Ohio enjoyed a few days ago has forced cancellation of an ice fishing trip which Gov. James A. Rhodes had planned for today at Indian Lake.

Rhodes has scheduled the trip to promote outdoor recreation in Ohio, but his office said the recent balmy spell melted the lake's ice cap.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Boss's Wife Needs Personal Secretary

DEAR ABBY: I am "the" girl in a one-employee office, and my problem is my boss's wife. She thinks I am hired to run all her errands. This morning she sent a girl to the office for me to take back to the store for credit. It was wrapped in a piece of torn tissue paper (No sales slip. Just try it some time!)

She is always sending stuff for me to have gift-wrapped and mailed out of town. Nothing is ever in a box. All this takes time and standing in line. And I have to do it after my regular office hours I am not paid an extra dime for this, and she has never even said thank you.

Now she has a new one. She brings her little 4-year-old boy to the office for me to entertain while she has her hair done. I like my job and I like my boss, but I don't like being—

THE WIFE'S ERRAND GIRL

DEAR ABBY: Tell your boss that this was not the kind of work you were hired for, and unless your job resumes its original character, you're leaving. (P. S: But don't be rough about it. He may be as pained as you are about his wife's demands.)

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law got pregnant and I offered to let her wear my maternity clothes. They were good as new and I paid good money for them. When she returned them to me they were just like rags. All worn out and even soiled I could have cried.

I will never be able to wear them again. I hope to have more children and I planned on saving them. Should I send her a bill?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: No. Charge it to experience. And in the future offer articles of clothing to no one unless you are reasonably certain they will be returned in good condition.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago my son and his wife asked me to live with them. They have six children I promptly accepted for I lived alone.

Ever since then, I have had absolutely no privacy whatsoever. Every morning bright and early their kids come knocking at my bedroom door. My son and his wife go out constantly, leaving me with the kids. They tell everyone they now have a "built-in sitter?"

I can't take much more of this. I have a job and my own life to live. How can I tell them I am leaving?

NO SITTER

DEAR NO: Unless you can communicate better in another language, try English.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PRESERVED" IN PITTSBURGH: Don't be a sap. The only one who can't live without a mink coat is a mink!

Girl Editor at Harvard Still Gets Rave Reviews

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — College men took the election of Linda McVeigh as the first female managing editor of the Harvard Crimson with a collective good-natured groan.

"I think the boys were a lot more aware of my being a girl than I was," she said.

That was last February, now Miss McVeigh is 20, retired from the Crimson, working on her majors in American history and literature, preparing to graduate from Radcliffe in June, and planning for marriage and a career.

The job she did as managing editor of the 94-year-old student daily for Harvard men and Radcliffe women is still getting rave reviews.

"She was great," said Robert Samuelson, last year's Crimson president and chief editorial officer. "You just have to look at the papers to see that."

"I would call her a hard-core reporter," said Boisseuillet (Bo) Jones Jr., sports editor last year and now Crimson president. "She got right down to the facts and didn't take any nonsense. She was a very active managing editor."

Miss McVeigh, daughter of an Anaheim, Calif., carpenter, said

she spent 50 to 60 hours a week on the Crimson in addition to 30 hours on school work.

She directed a staff of 30, about 10 of them girls, and was responsible for the news pages. The Crimson publishes daily except Sunday, has a circulation of 4,200, and usually runs six to eight pages.

That left little time for social life and dating, although Miss McVeigh found time to decide to marry the Crimson's executive editor, Thomas J. Mathews not immediately, but in a few years.

She went after the Crimson job because she knew it would be hard work. She has no plans of easing up now.

Her ambitions include joining the Peace Corps to help establish a newspaper on a Pacific island, coming home to get a law degree, getting married, entering politics, and maybe running for Congress.

"I would feel guilty living comfortably," she said. "Life is competitive. I don't want to end up on some easy job making easy choices."

Music Program Presented By WSCS at Silver Tea

The Hedges Chapel Women's Society of Christian Service held their annual Silver Tea at the church recently with two-hundred guests in attendance.

The altar vases filled with spring flowers, given by Russell Hedges, in memory of his wife Erma and mother, and the beautiful new spring hats worn by the guests made a lovely setting for a most pleasant afternoon.

The guests were greeted at the door by George and Martha Washington portrayed by Dorothy Cormany and Louise Spear. Seating the guests were the Misses Jill Butt, Kathy Beers, Kay Hay and Vicki Neff.

Mrs. William Plum Jr., president, welcomed the guests and presented Mrs. Joseph Peters as program chairman.

The following musical program was presented. A vocal trio consisting of Nancy Collins, Miriam Purcell and Mary Ann Miller sang "Tea for Two" and "Sweetheart Tree." Linda Hickman was the accompanist.

A flute quartet from Walnut Jr. High School with Linda Sanderson, Bridget Haines, Christy Hafflin and Beck Hoover, played "The Children's Marching Song," "Aura Lee" and "Christ the Lord is Risen." Mr. William Pangburn was the director.

A piano solo was given by Joyce Ann Barr, with her numbers being: "Impromptu" and "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Melissa Plum, Melissa Archer, Brenda Brinker and Joy Hoy, sang "The Lollipop Tree" accompanied by Mrs. David Dill.

"Moods in Contrast" was presented by the clarinet choir, consisting of: Martha Sark, Sandra Perrill, Garland Ison, Debbie Cook, Linda Dillon and Vernon Bolender, with Mr. John Crumley, directing.

A piano solo, "Melody of Love," was played by Karen Harmount.

"Valse Staccato" was presented by the flute quartet, with Becky Dumm, Becky Hoffman, Vivian Sheets and Pam Hartman, playing. Mr. John Crumley directed.

The Metta Larks sang, "Dry Bones" and "The Bells of St. Mary's."

The musical program ended with a skit, "As the Earth Spins," with Carolyn Peters, Metta Dill, Donna Fosnaugh and Louise Barr.

The guests were invited to the dining room for an hour of fellowship. The Tea table appointment in colors of pink and red was arranged by Mrs. Roy Frazier, Mrs. Judd Dresbach and Mrs. Martin Cromley presided at the table.

This annual social event is always one of the enjoyable highlights of the season. The Hedges Chapel women look forward to entertaining ladies from this and surrounding communities.

Rhodes Cancels Ice-Fishing Trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The mild weather Ohio enjoyed a few days ago has forced cancellation of an ice fishing trip which Gov. James A. Rhodes had planned for today at Indian Lake.

Rhodes has scheduled the trip to promote outdoor recreation in Ohio, but his office said the recent balmy spell melted the lake's ice cap.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Boss's Wife Needs Personal Secretary

DEAR ABBY: I am "the" girl in a one-employee office, and my problem is my boss's wife. She thinks I am hired to run all her errands. This morning she sent a girl to the office for me to take back to the store for credit. It was wrapped in a piece of torn tissue paper (No sales slip. Just try it some time!)

She is always sending stuff for me to have gift-wrapped and mailed out of town. Nothing is ever in a box. All this takes time and standing in line. And I have to do it after my regular office hours I am not paid an extra dime for this, and she has never even said thank you.

Now she has a new one. She brings her little 4-year-old boy to the office for me to entertain while she has her hair done. I like my job and I like my boss, but I don't like being—

THE WIFE'S ERRAND GIRL
DEAR ERRAND GIRL: Tell your boss that this was not the kind of work you were hired for, and unless your job resumes its original character, you're leaving. (P.S.: But don't be rough about it. He may be as pained as you are about his wife's demands.)

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law got pregnant and I offered to let her wear my maternity clothes. They were good for new and I paid good money for them. When she returned them to me they were just like rags. All worn out and even soiled I could have cried.

I will never be able to wear them again. I hope to have more children and I planned on saving them. Should I send her a bill?

DISGUSTED
Charge it to experience. And in the future offer articles of clothing to no one unless you are reasonably certain they will be returned in good condition.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago my son and his wife asked me to live with them. They have six children I promptly accepted for I lived alone.

Ever since then, I have had absolutely no privacy whatsoever. Every morning bright and early their kids come knocking at my bedroom door. My son and his wife go out constantly, leaving me with the kids. They tell everyone they now have a "built-in sitter?"

I can't take much more of this. I have a job and my own life to live. How can I tell them I am leaving?

NO SITTER
DEAR NO: Unless you can communicate better in another language, try English.

Girl Editor at Harvard Still Gets Rave Reviews

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—College men took the election of Linda McVeigh as the first female managing editor of the Harvard Crimson with a collective good-natured groan.

"I think the boys were a lot more aware of my being a girl than I was," she said.

That was last February, now Miss McVeigh is 20, retired from the Crimson, working on her majors in American history and literature, preparing to graduate from Radcliffe in June, and planning for marriage and a career.

The job she did as managing editor of the 94-year-old student daily for Harvard men and Radcliffe women is still getting rave reviews.

"She was great," said Robert Samuelson, last year's Crimson president and chief editorial officer. "You just have to look at the papers to see that."

"I would call her a hard-core reporter," said Boisfeuillet (Bo) Jones Jr., sports editor last year and now Crimson president. "She got right down to the facts and didn't take any nonsense. She was a very active managing editor."

Miss McVeigh, daughter of an Anaheim, Calif., carpenter, said

she spent 50 to 60 hours a week on the Crimson in addition to 30 hours on school work.

She directed a staff of 30, about 10 of them girls, and was responsible for the news pages. The Crimson publishes daily except Sunday, has a circulation of 4,200, and usually runs six to eight pages.

That left little time for social life and dating, although Miss McVeigh found time to decide to marry the Crimson's executive editor, Thomas J. Mathews not immediately, but in a few years.

Her ambitions include joining the Peace Corps to help establish a newspaper on a Pacific island, coming home to get a law degree, getting married, entering politics, and maybe running for Congress.

"I would feel guilty living comfortably," she said. "Life is competitive. I don't want to end up on some easy job making easy choices."

House Team Will Probe Fire in U.S. Space Craft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special House team will probe the Jan. 27 fire that killed three U.S. astronauts after finding "a remarkable number of similarities" between the blaze and a later fire that fatally burned two airmen.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee ordered the investigation Tuesday after receiving a report that safety procedures were inadequate in tests at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., where the airmen received fatal burns four days after the astronauts perished in their space capsule at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

An investigative subcommittee of Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., and Rep. Durrant G. Hall, R-Mo., reported Brooks officials didn't realize the extent of the danger of fire in a pure oxygen atmosphere. The capsules in both accidents were filled with pure oxygen.

The two said after an investigation at Brooks that foam rubber sponges were taken into the capsule despite a report officials there had received showing sponge material burns 60 times faster in oxygen than in air.

The congressmen also found that no one was watching outside the capsule in which A2C William F. Bartley Jr. and A3C Richard G. Harmon were burned Dec. 31. And the report noted there was no television monitor on the capsule.

The investigators also observed there were no carbon dioxide fire extinguishers outside the capsule. They concluded the airmen apparently had not been given instructions on use of two such extinguishers inside.

Their report found "a remarkable number of similarities" between the two fires.

Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee perished when a fire flashed through their spacecraft as it rested atop its rocket during tests.

The subcommittee said there were some fire prevention measures in use at the Brooks tests, but added: "Nevertheless, our inquiry suggests that these procedures in light of what developed, not only at Brooks but also at Cape Kennedy, were in fact inadequate."

Auto Industry Is Eliminating Some Pollutants

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry claims to have made extensive progress in taking air pollutants out of car exhausts, and car makers forecast further progress.

Top spokesmen for the four major auto makers told Senate investigators this week of efforts to meet the government's exhaust control standards for 1968 model cars.

Carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions were described as reduced by 60 to 80 per cent.

At present, weather details are inaccurate or lacking for about 90 per cent of the earth's surface.

Leaders Ask Floor Vote On Pay Raise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House leaders called for a floor vote today on a bill hiking the pay of the governor's cabinet members and raising Ohio's minimum wage to $1.40 an hour.

The vote coincided with a conference committee report recommending May 2 as the date for a statewide election to consider administration reapportionment and bond commission resolutions.

If the House and Senate accept the conference committee's recommendations, they will have until March 3 to complete action on the ballot proposals—a week longer than previously expected. The March 3 date would be the deadline for ballot certification.

Sen Robert R. Shaw's Senate Finance Committee considered more revisions Tuesday night on the House-passed proposal which would create a five-member Ohio Bond Commission to float bonds for capital improvements and highways. Shaw R-16 Columbus, Franklin said the committee should complete action on the resolution late this week or early next week.

The House Government Operations Committee recommended passage of the worked-over apportionment proposal which would establish legislative districts for use until after the 1970 census. House changes in the Senate version are expected to send it to a conference committee.

Majority Republicans had enough votes for passage of the pay raise bill but the fate of an immediately effective emergency clause was in doubt. The emergency clause would require solid Republican backing along with the votes of four Democrats who have criticized acting on the salaries of cabinet members before voting on another bill to raise the pay of 44,000 state employees.

Under the measure, the salaries of five cabinet members would be hiked to a top of $27,539 and those of seventeen other to a top of $23,920. Their pay now ranges from $17,280 to $22,500.

The bill also would increase the pay of about 1,000 state employees now receiving less than the new federal wage minimum of $1.40 an hour. They now earn $1.33 and $1.38 an hour.

A dozen new bills were introduced in the two houses Tuesday, including one aimed at alleviating construction tie-ups on state building projects.

Sens Tennyson Guyer R-2 Hancock and Max H. Dennis R-10 Clinton sponsored the measure which would enable the state to deal with a single contractor on construction projects in an effort to comply with anti-discrimination requirements to obtain federal funds.

John McElroy, executive assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes said failure to contractors to obtain non-discrimination pledges from unions which supply construction workers has endangered millions of dollars worth of construction.

Among other new bills was one appropriating $259,000 for

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department files on the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate now contain names of "a couple of hundred thousand" persons and businesses.

That round but imposing figure was provided Tuesday by Henry Peterson, head of the department's organized crime and racketeering section, in an interview.

Although these individuals and businesses are thought to have ties with the Cosa Nostra, the department has under close observation the activities of several hundred at most, Peterson said.

The Justice Department hasn't the manpower to do much more, even with help from investigative agencies such as the Internal Revenue Service, Secret Service and Federal Bureau of Investigation, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The population of the United States as of the first of the year has been estimated at a shade under 198 million by the Census Bureau.

The bureau said Monday this was a 10 per cent jump from the 1960 census, when the head count totaled 180 million.

The 200-million mark should be passed late this year or early in 1968, according to the bureau.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Modernization of the patent system is long overdue," says President Johnson.

He wants Congress to get to work on a new look for the system, which keeps track of inventions and settles arguments

The President's recommendations were prompted by the report of a commission he had appointed to look into the problem.

"This nation which has reached unparalleled industrial and technological heights," he said Tuesday in a letter to House and Senate leaders, "is operating under a patent system that has remained unchanged for the past 130 years."

Bank Robbery Suspect Is Apprehended

Another of Trio Reported To Have Surrendered

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP)—This begins a bank holiday, employees of the Merchants and Farmers Bank over in Frankfort have an extra day to get over Tuesday's upsetting experience—a three-man holdup.

Meanwhile, law enforcement officers hoped to continue rounding up suspects in the caper they attributed to a group they have been keeping under surveillance as possible robbers casing areas banks.

There was also the little matter of retrieving the $4,100 obtained in the robbery.

One man, Kenneth E. (Jake) Dorman, 40, of Greenfield, was in custody a few hours after the holdup at Frankfort in Ross County, between here and Chillicothe, and charged with bank robbery.

Another reportedly gave himself up by Tuesday night but had not been charged.

All in all, judging by FBI reports on the robbery, it was pretty clumsily staged.

For one thing, the three robbers with faces blacked with burnt cork and brandishing nickel plated pistols overlooked $10,000 placed on the counter just before they left.

And the four bank employees—Manager Charles Crawford and three women—herded into a back room with two customers were so carelessly bound with wire that Crawford was loose "within 20 seconds" and reporting the robbery.

Two women living across the street from the bank described the getaway auto.

A car matching the description was stopped here for an alleged traffic violation. In it was Dorman, who authorities said had been staying here in a rented apartment with the others who had been under surveillance.

Dorman was taken before the U.S. commissioner in Columbus and held there in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Ex-Senator Paul Douglas Still Likes Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Douglas wasn't afraid of controversy when he was U.S. senator from Illinois and he isn't afraid of it now that he's "just a schoolteacher" again.

"Argue with me, play the devil's advocate," the silver-haired economist-statesman shouted at his class of 20 at the New School for Social Research Tuesday night. He pounded on the birch-topped table in front of him so hard that all eight of the tables pushed together for the seminar shook and students jumped up in alarm.

Then there was a burst of laughter, in which Douglas joined, and a curly-haired man of about 35 took up the challenge.

The former senator, defeated by Republican Chalmers Percy last November, had upheld the current government spending for welfare and foreign aid and asked: "Would someone come forward and defend the conservative cause?"

To which the "devil's advocate" replied "by increasing the deficit for welfare spending, we are reducing the incentive for private enterprise to increase the profits which would eventually filter down to these people (on welfare)."

The student who defended the conservative cause declined to give his identity for publication. Douglas, getting up to pace the room, snapped: "We've waited for a long time for that and it hasn't happened yet."

Fingering his blue and black striped tie, the former senator went on: "To be a liberal, you don't have to be a wastrel," he told the class. "It's no virtue to waste money."

Sitting, pounding, pacing, the veteran of 18 years in the Senate recounted his own efforts over that time to pare waste from the federal budget.

"The place where the waste really exists in the military," he said, pouring out a collection of gadgets on the table as the class crowded around to look.

"This is an aluminum slug," he said of one item. "I paid 50 cents for it in Washington; the Air Force paid $10."

"Look at these lamp sockets — 25 cents apiece. The Navy paid $21.40 each for over 5,000 of them."

Chuckling, the 74-year-old Democrat said a demonstration like this helped him win the Illinois seat in 1960 since he was able to charge that the Republican administration was not all that good at saving money.

After President John F. Kennedy was elected and appointed Robert S. McNamara secretary of defense, Douglas said he wrote a letter pointing out how the new man could save $3 billion a year by instituting competitive bidding on these and other items.

"This proved to be most conservative," Douglas said. "He's now saving over $6 billion without cutting firepower."

The House Government Operations Committee recommended passage of the worked-over apportionment proposal which would establish legislative districts for use until after the 1970 census. House changes in the Senate version are expected to send it to a conference committee.

Majority Republicans had enough votes for passage of the pay raise bill but the fate of an immediately effective emergency clause was in doubt. The emergency clause would require solid Republican backing along with the votes of four Democrats who have criticized action on the salaries of cabinet members before voting on another bill to raise the pay of 44,000 state employees.

Under the measure, the salaries of five cabinet members would be hiked to a top of $27,539 and those of seventeen other to a top of $23,920. Their pay now ranges from $17,280 to $22,500.

The bill also would increase the pay of about 1,000 state employees now receiving less than the new federal wage minimum of $1.40 an hour. They now earn $1.33 and $1.38 an hour. A dozen new bills were introduced in the two houses Tuesday, including one aimed at alleviating construction tie-ups on state building projects.

Sens Tennyson Guyer R-2 Hancock and Max H. Dennis R-10 Clinton sponsored the measure which would enable the state to deal with a single contractor on construction projects in an effort to comply with anti-discrimination requirements to obtain federal funds.

John McElroy, executive assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes said failure to contractors to obtain non-discrimination pledges from unions which supply construction workers has endangered millions of dollars worth of construction.

Among other new bills was one appropriating $259,000 for

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department files on the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate now contain names of "a couple of hundred thousand" persons and businesses.

That round but imposing figure was provided Tuesday by Henry Peterson, head of the department's organized crime and racketeering section, in an interview.

Although these individuals and businesses are thought to have ties with the Cosa Nostra, the department has under close observation the activities of several hundred at most, Peterson said.

The Justice Department hasn't the manpower to do much more, even with help from investigative agencies such as the Internal Revenue Service, Secret Service and Federal Bureau of Investigation, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The population of the United States as of the first of the year has been estimated at a shade under 198 million by the Census Bureau.

The bureau said Monday this was a 10 per cent jump from the 1960 census, when the head count totaled 180 million.

The 200-million mark should be passed late this year or early in 1968, according to the bureau.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Modernization of the patent system is long overdue," says President Johnson.

He wants Congress to get to work on a new look for the system, which keeps track of inventions and settles arguments over who invented a device or process first.

The President's recommendations were prompted by the report of a commission he had appointed to look into the problem.

"This nation which has reached unparalleled industrial and technological heights," he said Tuesday in a letter to House and Senate leaders, "is operating under a patent system that has remained unchanged for the past 130 years."

CAPITAL FOOTNOTES

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, worn down by Lincoln Day speaking engagements, has checked into Walter Reed Army Hospital for a checkup and some rest.

President Johnson's order to delay construction projects is hitting close to home — plans to run a covered portico from the White House to the nearby executive office building have been set aside "for the time being."

An inconspicuous suitcase concealed the Leonardo da Vinci painting "Ginevra Dei Benici" when it crossed the ocean by airliner recently, a National Gallery official says. The National Gallery has bought the painting for a price reported in the $5 million to $6 million range.

Richard H. Nolte, 46 executive director of the Institute of Current World Affairs in New York, will be nominated as ambassador to the United Arab Republic, the President says.

CAPITAL QUOTE

"While thousands of our finest young men are fighting and dying in the jungles of Vietnam, this healthy specimen is profiteering from a series of shabby bouts. Apparently Cassius will fight anyone but the Viet Cong." — Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., in a House speech on the draft status of heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay.

Young People's Revival Slated

The Church of Christ in Christian Union in Asheville is holding a Young People's Weekend Revival.

The revival will be held Mar. 2 through 5. Speakers who will rotate during the event are Don Crooks, John Maxwell, Phil Conrad and David Dean.

Pam Harber will be the leader. The Ambassador Quartet will offer special selections.

The services will begin each evening at 7:30, according to Rev. Lutz, pastor.

A $100 MILLION OUTLAY to combat this crime situation in the U.S. is proposed by Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y. He wants a National Institute for Crime Prevention and Control, citing that crime costs the nation more than $27 billion a year.

Bank Robbery Suspect Is Apprehended

Another of Trio Reported To Have Surrendered

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP) — This begins a bank holiday, employees of the Merchants and Farmers Bank over in Frankfort have an extra day to get over Tuesday's upsetting experience—a three-man holdup.

Meanwhile, law enforcement officers hoped to continue rounding up suspects in the caper they attributed to a group they have been keeping under surveillance as possible robbers casing areas banks.

There was also the little matter of retrieving the $4,100 obtained in the robbery.

One man, Kenneth E. (Jake) Dorman, 40, of Greenfield, was in custody a few hours after the holdup at Frankfort in Ross County, between here and Chillicothe, and charged with bank robbery.

Another reportedly gave himself up by Tuesday night but had not been charged.

All in all, judging by FBI reports on the robbery, it was pretty clumsily staged.

For one thing, the three robbers with faces blacked with burnt cork and brandishing nickel plated pistols overlooked $10,000 placed on the counter just before they left.

And the four bank employees—Manager Charles Crawford and three women — herded into a back room with two customers were so carelessly bound with wire that Crawford was loose "within 20 seconds" and reporting the robbery.

Two women living across the street from the bank described the getaway auto.

A car matching the description was stopped here for an alleged traffic violation. In it was Dorman, who authorities said had been staying here in a rented apartment with the others who had been under surveillance.

Dorman was taken before the U.S. commissioner in Columbus and held there in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Ex-Senator Paul Douglas Still Likes Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Douglas wasn't afraid of controversy when he was U.S. senator from Illinois and he isn't afraid of it now that he's "just a schoolteacher" again.

"Argue with me, play the devil's advocate," the silver-haired economist-statesman shouted at his class of 20 at the New School for Social Research Tuesday night. He pounded on the birch-topped table in front of him so hard that all eight of the tables pushed together for the seminar shook and students jumped up in alarm.

Then there was a burst of laughter, in which Douglas joined, and a curly-haired man of about 35 took up the challenge.

The former senator, defeated by Republican Chalmers Percy last November, had upheld the current government spending for welfare and foreign aid and asked: "Would someone come forward and defend the conservative cause?"

To which the "devil's advocate" replied "by increasing the deficit for welfare spending, we are reducing the incentive for private enterprise to increase the profits which would eventually filter down to these people (on welfare)."

The student who defended the conservative cause declined to give his identity for publication. Douglas, getting up to pace the room, snapped: "We've waited for a long time for that and it hasn't happened yet."

Fingering his blue and black striped tie, the former senator went on: "To be a liberal, you don't have to be a wastrel," he told the class. "It's no virtue to waste money."

Sitting, pounding, pacing, the veteran of 18 years in the Senate recounted his own efforts over that time to pare waste from the federal budget.

"The place where the waste really exists in the military," he said, pouring out a collection of gadgets on the table as the class crowded around to look.

"This is an aluminum slug," he said of one item. "I paid 50 cents for it in Washington; the Air Force paid $10."

"Look at these lamp sockets — 25 cents apiece. The Navy paid $21.40 each for over 5,000 of them."

Chuckling, the 74-year-old Democrat said a demonstration like this helped him win the Illinois seat in 1960 since he was able to charge that the Republican administration was not all that good at saving money.

After President John F. Kennedy was elected and appointed Robert S. McNamara secretary of defense, Douglas said he wrote a letter pointing out how the new man could save $3 billion a year by instituting competitive bidding on these and other items.

"This proved to be most conservative," Douglas said. "He's now saving over $6 billion without cutting firepower."

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 22, the 53rd day of 1967. There are 312 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1732, George Washington was born.

On this date

In 1748, Count Casimir Pulaski, a hero of the American Revolution, was born in Poland.

In 1810, Frederic Chopin, the Polish composer, was born.

In 1879, Frank Woolworth opened his first five cent store in Utica, N.Y.

In 1929, the Kellogg-Briand anti-war Pact was ratified by the Parliament of Canada.

In 1942, it was announced that native tribesmen in the Philippines had completely wiped out an invading Japanese regiment.

Ten years ago — A U.S. Air Force "Globemaster" transport plane crashed in the Han River northwest of Seoul, Korea. There were 159 persons aboard the plane. At least nine were killed and 13 others were reported missing.

Five years ago — A freight train and a passenger train collided near Cali, Colombia, and at least 40 persons were killed.

One year ago — Gen. Maxwell Taylor said the Viet Cong might be included in a coalition government in South Vietnam through free elections.

"Honesty is the Best Policy" ... Quoting GEORGE WASHINGTON

We, at Seymour's Make Mistakes Too!

TRUE CONFESSIONS

But You Can Do Better Than We Did on These Items

They call this an easy sitting suite, but it wasn't easy selling. Sofa and chair, brown, Danish style, foam cushioning. We will let it go now at $149.95.

Direct from North Carolina . . . This French Provincial Sofa in eggshell was so pretty it was in a model home. Was $199.95. Beautiful but too light customers say. Would you consider it for $69.50? It's yours if you would.

DuPont Lucite Wall Paint. One day a gallon is $5.50, tomorrow $6.50, next week $7, next $5.49. A great football in paint. We've got quite a few gallons, but not all colors . . . What we have goes at $4.88 (Quarts go at $1.49) DuPont Enamel goes at $1.88 a quart.

Terrific Seller, they said, this glove-soft green naughahyde sofa and chair with finest cushioning and construction is just the thing for recreation rooms and tough kids . . . Special at $299.95—moved all around the store . . . Try $60 saving at $239.95.

This happens — Top line maple round table, 6 chairs, extra large table 42x70 with leaf. Special order, double shipped . . . lists at $270. We'll knock off $75 and find it a home for $195.

Your living room will be lovely, your purse will be happy, and so will we when you buy this lovely dark beige quilted Johnson Carper Traditional sofa. Foam rubber with zippered cushions, priced too high at $269.95. Maybe $219.95 would be better.

Small 36 inch size maple buffet and hutch, good buy so everybody buys the 42 inch size . . . Clean the dust off this one and take it home for $88. George, that's a buy!

Factory Select 9x12 Nylon Rug in black and gold nylon tweed. Must have shut their eyes when they picked this one . . . We'll shut our eyes and let you have it for $28 cash and carry. One 12x12 beige nylon rug has been laying on our racks . . . lay it on your floor for $48 and we'll both be happy.

A good buy for you and a happy goodbye for us — Bassett French Provincial fruitwood tables, 2 lamp and cocktail. List at $167.85 buy all 3 for $139. Goodbye!

We are beginning to think we made a mistake on this Gold Early American sofa and chair . . . Colors pretty, Pincore foam in cushions, fine tailoring, but it hasn't sold at $300 for the two pieces . . . We'll knock off $75 and happily sell it to you for $225.

We've had this crazy desk from Bassett long enough, large size, formica top goes) with walnut or mahogany. Was $129.95 . . . Take it $88.

Live and Learn! Danish Modern drop leaf table and 4 chairs. Has extra leaf. Well made, was going to sell fast at $300 which included a buffet and hutch to match. We'll knock off $75 on this and sell for $225. How About That!

Three's a crowd! and this 3 piece Johnson Carper Maple bedroom suite, altho very beautiful, is crowding our floor. $289.95 was the price. SAVE $40 now . . . $249.95. This is a real class suite!

We bought right, we thought. Triple Dresser is maple, formica top, with framed decorated mirror, roomy chest and pretty spindle bed. A good buy at $259.95. Evidently our customers disagreed. We'll go with it at $188 George. Glad we only have one suite.

When we showed these prices to our credit man, his mouth flew open like a, loose gate in a high wind, and when he got over his astonishment said, "I'll work out a budget plan, even at those ridiculous prices." So if you want to pay for these "doggies" while you enjoy them it's O.K.

We lost our head when we bought this Early American formica topped decorator maple dining room set. Round table with leaf, and 4 ladder back chairs, foam seats upholstered with gold naughahyde. Sell everywhere they said for $229.95. We'll lose our shirt and sell now for $169.

Population Explosion! Not as far as this walnut baby bed is concerned, drop sides, adjustable height for the wet proof mattress, pretty picture on end. Will someone fill this for $39.95?

Just Plain Tired of looking at this Johnson Carper Brown - Grey Tweed Early American Chair. It has all the J.C. features and you can have them. Was special at $89.95. Save $40 and get it out of our sight at $49.95.

We goofed! Bought too many $14.95 Bar Stools, strong metal with upholstered seats . . . Dust 'em off and take them home at $6.95. How many can you use?

Mistakes! It's bad enough we bought this Olive Green Early American Lounge Chair to sell for $99.95, but we kept it around at that price. How about $30 off at $69.95?

We haven't confessed all our foolishness in this advertisement but you'll see when you read the price tags on the items we haven't mentioned. Some items we are just too ashamed to come out in cold print and mention. We do have a little pride left!

Solid Maple "Bedroom Suite of the Month", but it's been several months. Double dresser, chest, paneled bed; a fast seller at $229.95 (oh yeah!) how about a big savings. Buy it for $179. O.K. George?

How mistaken we were! This brown two piece Early American suite with foam cushions, and crushed foam back was supposedly a $269.95 bargain. You've shaken our confidence in this feeling so much that we are going to offer it to you at $188 for the two pieces. We only have one, thank goodness!

A can of upholstery cleaner will put this 3 cushion green and gold Danish sofa and this blue flowered chair and ottoman back in shape and take the soil off from sitting around the floor so long. We thought the works were worth about $240. Now we think $150 for all of it is about right. What do you think? Is $90 off enough?

We have a white figured top dinette table with 8 matching chairs. Table is 72 inches long with leaf in. One of those king size jobs that sell so well, except this one has just been looking pretty. We'll dust it off and deliver it for $88.

This $119.95 White Marble top round dinette set table blew off our delivery truck and damaged the leaf. It has 4 decorator high back chairs. Want to consider it at $50? We have some other dinette sets we are not too proud to mark down a lot too!

This is called over-buying! We have gobs of Early American (Bassett, etc.) lamp tables and cocktail tables. So many our face, is red with shame! We just went through the store with our red pencil and marked them down. You'll find them on the main floor and downstairs. In fact, you'll probably stumble over them. Help!

HONEST! We'll stay closed until 1 o'clock Thursday when we'll open the door to these doggie bargains.

That will give our friends in the country the same chance to get here as our city friends.

We wouldn't want our city friends to get stuck with all these goofs we made.

Local Backers Invited to DECA Meet

Local sponsors of the Distributive Education Program (DECA) at Circleville High School have been invited to attend an informational meeting Monday.

The session will be conducted at the Senior High School, room 206, from 3:30 to 5 p. m. The agenda will include a discussion on principles and requirements of the distributive education program.

The program at CHS is backed by local business firms that employ students on a part-time basis. This phase is coordinated with classroom instruction.

Mrs. M. A. Greenwood, distributive education teacher, will serve as moderator. Sponsors are urged to participate by offering suggestions for improving the program.

The session also will include a film dealing with methods of curbing shoplifting. Mrs. Greenwood said persons other than sponsors are invited.

This happens — Top line maple round table, 6 chairs, extra large table 42x70 with leaf. Special order, double shipped . . . lists at $270. We'll knock off $75 and find it a home for $195.

Your living room will be lovely, your purse will be happy, and so will we when you buy this lovely dark beige quilted Johnson Carper Traditional sofa. Foam rubber with zippered cushions, priced too high at $269.95. Maybe $219.95 would be better.

Small 36 inch size maple buffet and hutch, good buy so everybody buys the 42 inch size . . . Clean the dust off this one and take it home for $88. George, that's a buy!

Factory Select 9x12 Nylon Rug in black and gold nylon tweed. Must have shut their eyes when they picked this one . . . We'll shut our eyes and let you have it for $28 cash and carry. One 12x12 beige nylon rug has been laying on our racks . . . lay it on your floor for $48 and we'll both be happy.

A good buy for you and a happy goodbye for us — Bassett French Provincial fruitwood tables, 2 lamp and cocktail. List at $167.85 buy all 3 for $139. Goodbye!

We are beginning to think we made a mistake on this Gold Early American sofa and chair . . . Colors pretty, Pincore foam in cushions, fine tailoring, but it hasn't sold at $300 for the two pieces . . . We'll knock off $75 and happily sell it to you for $225.

We've had this crazy desk from Bassett long enough, large size, formica top goes! with walnut or mahogany. Was $129.95 . . . Take it $88.

Live and Learn! Danish Modern drop leaf table and 4 chairs. Has extra leaf. Well made, was going to sell fast at $300 which included a buffet and hutch to match. We'll knock off $75 on this and sell for $225. How About That!

Three's a crowd! and this 3 piece Johnson Carper Maple bedroom suite, altho very beautiful, is crowding our floor. $289.95 was the price. SAVE $40 now . . . $249.95. This is a real class suite!

We bought right, we thought. Triple Dresser is maple, formica top, with framed decorated mirror, roomy chest and pretty spindle bed. A good buy at $259.95. Evidently our customers disagreed. We'll go with it at $188 George. Glad we only have one suite.

When we showed these prices to our credit man, his mouth flew open like a loose gate in a high wind, and when he got over his astonishment said, "I'll work out a budget plan, even at those ridiculous prices." So if you want to pay for these "doggies" while you enjoy them it's O.K.

We lost our head when we bought this Early American formica topped decorator maple dining room set. Round table with leaf, and 4 ladder back chairs, foam seats upholstered with gold naughahyde. Sell everywhere they said for $229.95. We'll lose our shirt and sell now for $169.

Population Explosion! Not as far as this walnut baby bed is concerned, drop sides, adjustable height for the wet proof mattress, pretty picture on end. Will someone fill this for $39.95?

Just Plain Tired of looking at this Johnson Carper Brown-Grey Tweed Early American Chair. It has all the J.C. features and you can have them. Was special at $89.95. Save $40 and get it out of our sight at $49.95.

We goofed! Bought too many $14.95 Bar Stools, strong metal with upholstered seats . . . Dust 'em off and take them home at $6.95. How many can you use?

Mistakes! It's bad enough we bought this Olive Green Early American Lounge Chair to sell for $99.95, but we kept it around at that price. How about $30 off at $69.95?

We haven't confessed all our foolishness in this advertisement but you'll see when you read the price tags on the items we haven't mentioned. Some items we are just too ashamed to come out in cold print and mention. We do have a little pride left!

Solid Maple "Bedroom Suite of the Month", but it's been several months. Double dresser, chest, paneled bed; a fast seller at $229.95 (oh yeah!) how about a big savings. Buy it for $179. O.K. George?

How mistaken we were! This brown two piece Early American suite with foam cushions, and crushed foam back was supposedly a $269.95 bargain. You've shaken our confidence in this feeling so much that we are going to offer it to you at $188 for the two pieces. We only have one, thank goodness!

A can of upholstery cleaner will put this 3 cushion green and gold Danish sofa and this blue flowered chair and ottoman back in shape and take the soil off from sitting around the floor so long. We thought the works were worth about $240. Now we think $150 for all of it is about right. What do you think? Is $90 off enough?

We have a white figured top dinette table with 8 matching chairs. Table is 72 inches long with leaf in. One of those king size jobs that sell so well, except this one has just been looking pretty. We'll dust it off and deliver it for $88.

This $119.95 White Marble top round dinette set table blew off our delivery truck and damaged the leaf. It has 4 decorator high back chairs. Want to consider it at $50? We have some other dinette sets we are not too proud to mark down a lot too!

This is called over-buying! We have gobs of Early American (Bassett, etc.) lamp tables and cocktail tables. So many our face, is red with shame! We just went through the store with our red pencil and marked them down. You'll find them on the main floor and downstairs. In fact, you'll probably stumble over them. Help!

HONEST! We'll stay closed until 1 o'clock Thursday when we'll open the door to these doggie bargains.

That will give our friends in the country the same chance to get here as our city friends.

We wouldn't want our city friends to get stuck with all these goofs we made.

Local Backers Invited to DECA Meet

Local sponsors of the Distributive Education Program (DECA) at Circleville High School have been invited to attend an informational meeting Monday.

The session will be conducted at the Senior High School, room 206, from 3:30 to 5 p. m. The agenda will include a discussion on principles and requirements of the distributive education program.

The program at CHS is backed by local business firms that employ students on a part-time basis. This phase is coordinated with classroom instruction.

Mrs. M. A. Greenwood, distributive education teacher, will serve as moderator. Sponsors are urged to participate by offering suggestions for improving the program.

The session also will include a film dealing with methods of curbing shoplifting. Mrs. Greenwood said persons other than sponsors are invited.

'Ulysses' in Trouble as Movie This Time

EDITOR'S NOTE — James Joyce's novel "Ulysses" beat a censorship attempt in 1933 when it came to the United States. Now the epic movie version faces the same sort of trouble. Raymond J. Crowley, who covered federal Judge John M. Woolsey's landmark decision on the case in 1933, tells about the new problems.

WASHINGTON (AP)—James Joyce, whose epic "Ulysses" won a famous legal victory over censorship 34 years ago, appeared to be headed Tuesday toward posthumous trouble with a police censor named Murphy. The premiere of the movie version of "Ulysses" is scheduled in selected theaters around the country March 14. Here and there obstacles have arisen. One is in Chicago, where the police department has a film review section. Distributors of the movie say they have refused to show the film in advance to the police censors. Sgt. Robert Murphy of the film review section says that if they don't they risk a crackdown.

Sgt. Murphy said in a telephone interview that a city ordinance provides that nothing shall be shown on the screen without a permit.

Asked if he ever read the book, he said: "No. But I guess it wouldn't have any effect on a man of my age. I'm 56 and I have 11 kids and 12 grandchildren. I don't even need the Catholic Index of Books to keep me straight."

"From what I hear, Joyce was in a class with that fellow Behan, with no concept of what's obscene."

The reference was to the roistering Irish author Brendan Behan, who wrote the play "The Quare Fellow" and other works, and died in 1964 at the age of 41. Maryland has a Board of Motion Picture Censors, the only state agency of its kind left in the country. There is a possibility of a legal clash in that state also.

Elwood Gebhart, executive assistant to the board, said unless the film is submitted in advance the board would be required to act under the law. "It may be a classic and I'm no prude, but there is a limit," he said.

In New York, a spokesman for Walter Reade-Sterling, Inc., which is distributing the film in this country, said it is refusing to show it to the Maryland board.

"That battle has been fought once," he said.

That was a reference to a 1933 New York court case in which federal Judge John M. Woolsey allowed the book into the United States. He said that while it "is somewhat emetic, nowhere does it tend to be an aphrodisiac."

Joyce responded to that review by remarking that the judge was "not devoid of a sense of humor."

The movie, directed by Joseph Strick, was filmed in Du-

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho Senate has approved a bill permitting Idaho potato growers to ship dirty potatoes to other states.

Sen. Marsden Williams said that when these potatoes are washed they don't keep as well.

blin. Last Wednesday the film was passed without any cuts through the U.S. Customs at New York. Irving Cushman, customs official, explained that recent Supreme Court decisions protect all movies except those without any "redeeming social value."

Board Approves Jail Contracts

The Pickaway County Commissioners this week approved separate contracts with Circleville and several villages concerning the housing of prisoners in the County Jail.

Care and maintenance of prisoners committed from the various areas was outlined. The villages concerned are New Holland, Orient, South Bloomfield, Williamsport and Tarlton.

All the contracts will extend to 1970.

Young Republicans Hold Annual Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Young Republicans from colleges across the state will meet at the Fort Hayes Hotel Saturday for their annual school of politics sponsored by the Ohio League of College Young Republican Clubs.

League chairman Timothy V. Dix, a senior at Oberlin College, said the theme for this year's school will be "The Republican Opportunity," and will feature discussions of opportunities for the party in future elections.

Veteran BPO Elks Honored At Annual PER Meeting

Circleville BPO Elks Lodge honored its veteran members and past exalted rulers Tuesday.

The event was the annual Past Exalted Rulers Night. Four 35-year members recognized at the meeting were Charles Radcliff, Robert Pickens, Willard T. Wright and Gerald Hanley.

Orrin Gessley, who was initiated into the lodge in May of 1905, was cited as the oldest member in point of lodge membership. He was present at last night's meeting.

The 86-year-old Gessley is a past exalted ruler of the lodge and a past secretary.

THE INITIATION of seven candidates was conducted by Exalted Ruler Gene Lindsey and his corps of officers.

The new Elks are Larry Eitel, Route 3; Ronald D. Easter, Route 1; George Evans, N. Court St.; David M. Huffer, Route 1; John L. Strawser, Route 1; Edward Gahn, Route 2, Williamsport; and Richard Buskirk, Route 4.

A roast beef dinner, prepared under the supervision of Jimmy Carpenter, was served preceding the meeting and initiation.

Walnut Farmer Attends Ag Conference

Cromley, a vice president of the National Cattlemen's Assn., attended as a representative of that organization.

Other organizations represented included the Farm Bureau, the National Farmers Organization, the National Farmers Union, the Grange, and other groups representing practically every type of agriculture in the United States.

The conference was called by President Johnson to give the organizations a chance to air farmers problems to the Department of Agriculture. Cromley said most of the groups represented felt some type of controls are still needed.

Cromley was one of about 60 farmers at the meeting who was invited to eat lunch at the White House with the President.

Ohio Watershed Projects Get OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Agriculture Committee approval has completed authorization for four Ohio watershed projects already approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The projects, together with federal and total costs, are:

Dick's Creek - Little Muddy Creek watersheds, Butler and Warren counties, $2,181,935 and $2,561,092; Little Auglaize River watershed, Mercer, Putnam, Paulding and Van Wert counties, $3,423,137 and $4,890,160; Middle Branch of Little Auglaize River watershed, Paulding and Van Wert counties, $2,221,687 and $2,956,920; Prairie-Haoglin Branch of Little Auglaize River watershed, Paulding and Van Wert counties, $1,500,271 and $2,184,647.

Business Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Knopf of Knopf's Sewing Center, 120 S. Court St., attended a dinner meeting of Independent Necchi Sewing Machine dealers at the Sheraton - Hilton's Lamplighter Inn at Covington, Ky., on Feb. 19.

The new 1967 models were shown by executive heads of the Necchi Co. from Pavia, Italy, Giglio Redussi and Gino Zanocco and Miss Elizabeth Clark, head of the company in the United Kingdom.

Several new features have been incorporated into the new models which are now being shown at the local Sewing Center.

Four Veterans Interviewed at Mock Session

Another simulated employment interview with residents from the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital Exit Service was conducted Tuesday night at Du Pont's Circleville plant.

Four veterans from the Exit unit approaching discharge stage came here for the practice interviews. They were accompanied by Tom Pagniano, member of the hospital staff who directs the specific job placement function.

The mock interview program is conducted here through a coordinated effort of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, a local Committee for the Employment of Restored Veterans (CERV), the Ohio Elks Assn. and the VA hospital.

The primary objective of the program is to help locate jobs for the restored veterans and assist them in adjusting to community life. The practice interview session is considered an important factor in making the effort successful.

THE INTERVIEWS are conducted once a month in this area. Serving on the panel last night were C. K. (Bill) Vaughan, Du Pont public relations staff; J. H. Hatcher, Du Pont personnel supervisor; Walton W. Spangler, manager of the Red Rose Farm Service; and Paul Smallwood, editor of The Herald.

The next interview session has been scheduled for Mar. 21 at the General Electric plant.

State Senator Slates Query Session Here

State Senator Harry Armstrong of the Sixth District will be in the basement of the Pickaway County Court House 7:30 to 11:30 a. m. Friday.

Armstrong will answer questions concerning current legislation pending before the State Legislature.

Oscar Nominations Go International at Last

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "At least," said Gregory Peck as the Oscar nominations were announced Monday, "we can no longer be accused of chauvinism."

Webster's defines chauvinism as "vain glorious or exaggerated patriotism."

There was a time when the Academy Awards seemed to be a local monopoly, but that time is past. The academy voters are now prepared to reward excellence in films wherever they are made, and in whatever language.

Acting awards for foreign-language films are not entirely new: Sophia Loren won the big prize in 1961 for playing "Two Women" in Italian. This year two actresses are nominated for non-English performances: Anouk Aimee (French) for "A Man and a Woman" and Ida Kaminska (Czech) for "The Shop on Main Street." Oddly, the latter film won as best foreign-language picture last year, having been released in 1966; it is now eligible in other categories.

Otherwise the Oscars should be subtitled, "the British are coming, the British are coming."

Not only are they coming, they're arriving in pairs. Witness Vanessa Redgrave ("Morgan!") and Lynn Redgrave ("Georgy Girl").

The Japanese are represented, too. The single-named Mako was nominated as best support actor for "The Sand Pebbles," and Toshiro Mayuzumi was named for his score of "The Bible."

The nominations brought few eyebrow-raisers. One could question whether Walter Matthau actually belonged in the supporting-actor category for "The Fortune Cookie." His role seemed equal to and perhaps greater than that of the star, Jack Lemmon.

General Gavin Considers Negotiation Is Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soldier-diplomat James M. Gavin said Tuesday the United States, with "steof will and determination," can now negotiate for peace "confident that a free, neutral and independent Vietnam can be established."

Gavin, a retired lieutenant general and former ambassador to France, said that the avenue to peace has been opened by the upheaval inside Communist China.

"We may now deal with Ho Chi Minh with some confidence that he is free of Chinese pressure and entanglement," Gavin told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

With that knowledge, he said, it should be possible to talk peace with Hanoi and the Communist National Liberation Front, seeking a Vietnam that would be guaranteed stability and neutrality by an international body.

"It will take strong will and determination to bring peace to Vietnam and to get on with the establishment of a free government, and the ultimate withdrawal of U.S. forces, but it is a task we should undertake," said Gavin, now a Cambridge, Mass., businessman.

As he did one year ago, Gavin counseled against escalation of the Vietnam conflict.

He said the "decisive use of massive power" against North Vietnam, with seizure and occupation of Hanoi and Haiphong, would be most dangerous.

"This might provide the very basis for bringing order into the Chinese situation, with a prompt and militant response to the aid of Hanoi," Gavin said.

He also spoke critically of American bombing in Vietnam. "The bombing of North Vietnam has caused considerable civilian casualties, has not stopped the flow of supplies to the South, and has aroused the ill will of people throughout the world," Gavin said.

He also said the Viet Cong

must now know it cannot win military victory against the present American forces in Vietnam.

"What is now needed is the political solution," he said. "Such a solution, promptly arrived at, will enable us to deal with affairs in other parts of the world, areas where our attention is sadly needed."

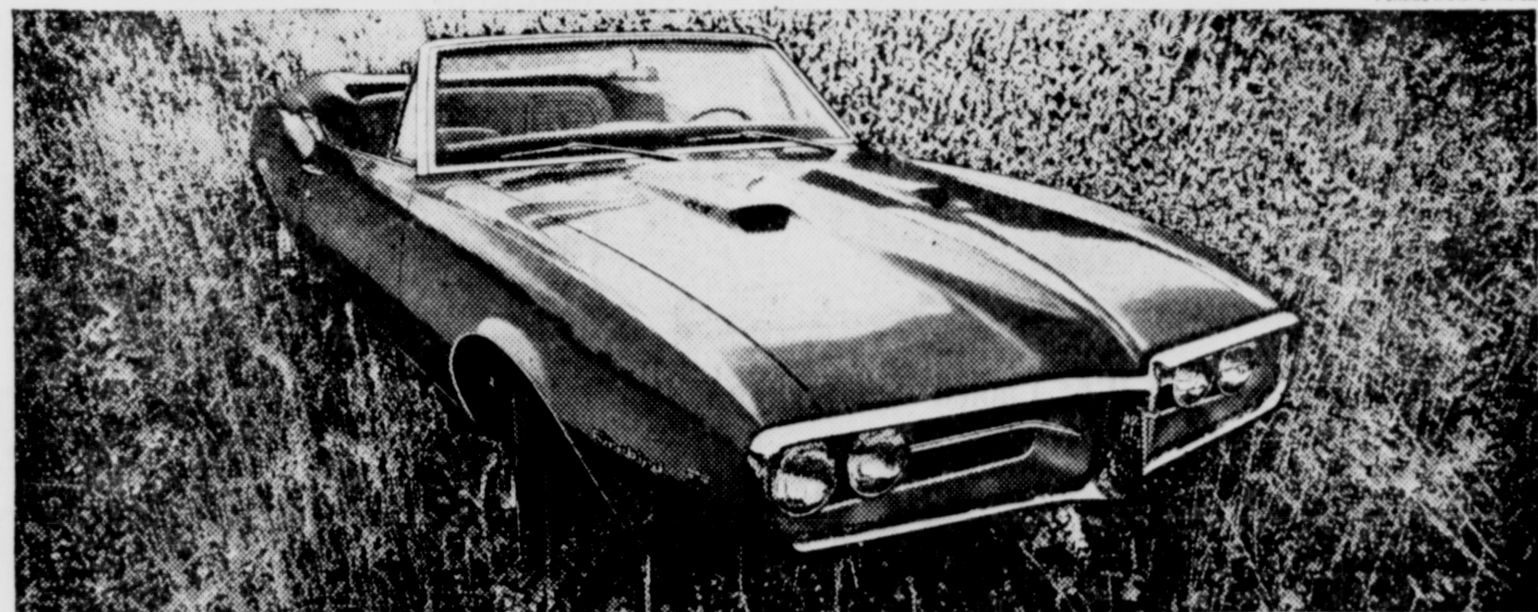

Propose Lowering Of Age for Voting

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — The Senate Election Committee recommended today a proposal to reduce Ohio's minimum voting age from 21 to 19 years.

The resolution, in the form of an amendment to the State Constitution, was sponsored by Sen. Oakley C. Collins R - 8 Lawrence.

If you thought Pontiac was coming out with just another sports car, you don't know Pontiac!

Pontiac announces not one, two, three or four, but five magnificent new Firebirds for every kind of driving.

Now you can choose from five new Firebirds with the same advanced Pontiac styling, but with five entirely different driving personalities. And they all come with supple expanded vinyl interiors, wood grain styled dash, exclusive space-saver collapsible spare, bucket seats and wide-oval tires.

Firebird 400. Coiled under those dual scoops is a 400 cubic inch V-8 that shrugs off 325 hp. It's connected to a floor-mounted heavy-duty three-speed. On special suspension with redline wide-oval tires. This could be called the ultimate in grand touring. After this, there isn't any more.

Firebird HO. HO stands for High Output. As a split second behind the wheel will attest to. The Firebird HO boasts a 285-hp V-8 with a four-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts and sport striping. Standard stick is a column-mounted three-speed. Naturally, all Firebird options are available.

Firebird 326. Is there room for a family in a sports car? There is now. The excitement of a sports car with the practicality of a 326 cubic inch V-8 that delivers 250 hp on regular gas. Standard transmission is an all-synchro three-speed, but you can order an automatic.

Firebird Sprint. Now you don't have to go to Europe for a sophisticated road machine. This is the 215-hp version of our eager Overhead Cam Six. It's mounted on special suspension that practically welds it to the road. (Any road!) With a floor-mounted all-synchro 3-speed.

Firebird. This is our economy Firebird—with the same exciting options and interiors as the more exotic ones. It's Overhead Cam Six squeezes 165 hp from regular for inexpensive fun driving. See them all at your Pontiac dealer's.

Veteran BPO Elks Honored At Annual PER Meeting

Circleville BPO Elks Lodge honored its veteran members and past exalted rulers Tuesday.

The event was the annual Past Exalted Rulers Night. Four 35-year members recognized at the meeting were Charles Radcliff, Robert Pickens, Willard T. Wright and Gerald Hanley.

Orrin Gessley, who was initiated into the lodge in May of 1905, was cited as the oldest member in point of lodge membership. He was present at last night's meeting.

The 86-year-old Gessley is a past exalted ruler of the lodge and a past secretary.

THE INITIATION of seven candidates was conducted by Exalted Ruler Gene Lindsey and his corps of officers.

The new Elks are Larry Eitel, Route 3; Ronald D. Easter, Route 1; George Evans, N. Court St.; David M. Huffer, Route 1; John L. Strawser, Route 1; Edward Gahm, Route 2, Williamsport; and Richard Buskirk, Route 4.

A roast beef dinner, prepared under the supervision of Jimmy Carpenter, was served preceding the meeting and initiation.

Walnut Farmer Attends Ag Conference

Cromley, a vice president of the National Cattlemen's Assn., attended as a representative of that organization.

Other organizations represented included the Farm Bureau, the National Farmers Organization, the National Farmers Union, the Grange, and other groups representing practically every type of agriculture in the United States.

The conference was called by President Johnson to give the organizations a chance to air farmers problems to the Department of Agriculture. Cromley said most of the groups represented felt some type of controls are still needed.

Cromley was one of about 60 farmers at the meeting who were invited to eat lunch at the White House with the President.

Ohio Watershed Projects Get OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Agriculture Committee approval has completed authorization for four Ohio watershed projects already approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The projects, together with federal and total costs, are:

Dick's Creek - Little Muddy Creek watersheds, Butler and Warren counties, $2,181,935 and $3,561,092; Little Auglaize River watershed, Mercer, Putnam, Paulding and Van Wert counties, $3,423,137 and $4,890,160; Middle Branch of Little Auglaize River watershed, Paulding and Van Wert counties, $2,221,687 and $2,956,920; Prairie-Haoglin Branch of Little Auglaize River watershed, Paulding and Van Wert counties, $1,500,271 and $2,184,047.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Knopf of Knopf's Sewing Center, 120 S. Court St., attended a dinner meeting of Independent Necchi Sewing Machine dealers at the Sheraton - Hilton's Lamplighter Inn at Covington, Ky., on Feb. 19.

The new 1967 models were shown by executive heads of the Necchi Co. from Pavia, Italy, Giglio Redussi and Gino Zanocco and Miss Elizabeth Clark, head of the company in the United Kingdom.

Several new features have been incorporated into the new models which are now being shown at the local Sewing Center.

Four Veterans Interviewed at Mock Session

Another simulated employment interview with residents from the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital Exit Service was conducted Tuesday night at Du Pont's Circleville plant.

Four veterans from the Exit unit approaching discharge stage came here for the practice interviews. They were accompanied by Tom Pagniano, member of the hospital staff who directs the specific job placement function.

The mock interview program is conducted here through a coordinated effort of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, a local Committee for the Employment of Restored Veterans (CERV), the Ohio Elks Assn. and the VA hospital.

The primary objective of the program is to help locate jobs for the restored veterans and assist them in adjusting to community life. The practice interview session is considered an important factor in making the effort successful.

THE INTERVIEWS are conducted once a month in this area. Serving on the panel last night were C. K. (Bill) Vaughan, Du Pont public relations staff; J. H. Hatcher, Du Pont personnel supervisor; Walton W. Spangler, manager of the Red Rose Farm Service; and Paul Smallwood, editor of The Herald.

The next interview session has been scheduled for Mar. 21 at the General Electric plant.

State Senator Slates Query Session Here

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "At least," said Gregory Peck as the Oscar nominations were announced Monday, "we can no longer be accused of chauvinism."

Webster's defines chauvinism as "vain glorious or exaggerated patriotism."

There was a time when the Academy Awards seemed to be a local monopoly, but that time is past. The academy voters are now prepared to reward excellence in films wherever they are made, and in whatever language.

Acting awards for foreign-language films are not entirely new: Sophia Loren won the big prize in 1961 for playing "Two Women" in Italian. This year two actresses are nominated for non-English performances: Anouk Aimee (French) for "A Man and a Woman" and Ida Kaminska (Czech) for "The Shop on Main Street." Oddly, the latter film won as best foreign-language picture last year, having been released in 1966, it is now eligible in other categories.

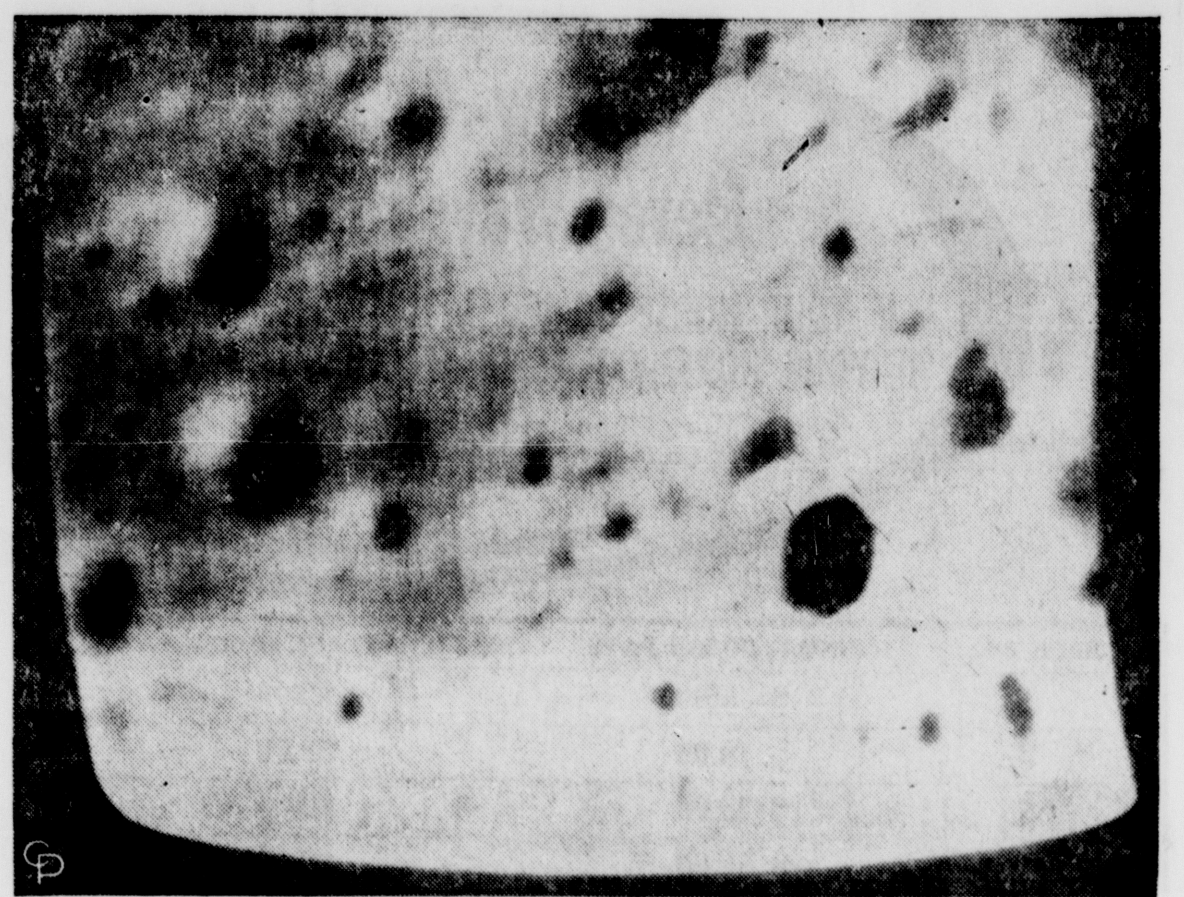

Otherwise the Oscars should be subtitled, "the British are coming, the British are coming."

Not only are they coming, they're arriving in pairs. Witness Vanessa Redgrave ("Morning") and Lynn Redgrave ("Georgy Girl").

The Japanese are represented, too. The single-named Mako was nominated as best support actor for "The Sand Pebbles," and Toshiro Mayuzumi was named for his score of "The Bible."

The nominations brought few eyebrow-raisers. One could question whether Walter Matthau actually belonged in the supporting-actor category for "The Fortune Cookie." His role seemed equal to and perhaps greater than that of the star, Jack Lemmon.

Also it might be questioned whether George Segal and Sandy Dennis are really supporting players in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" They share almost as much footage as the stars, Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soldier-diplomat James M. Gavin said Tuesday the United States, with "steely will and determination," can now negotiate for peace "confident that a free, neutral and independent Vietnam can be established."

Gavin, a retired lieutenant general and former ambassador to France, said that the avenue to peace has been opened by the upheaval inside Communist China.

"We may now deal with Ho Chi Minh with some confidence that he is free of Chinese pressure and entanglement," Gavin told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

With that knowledge, he said, it should be possible to talk peace with Hanoi and the Communist National Liberation Front, seeking a Vietnam that would be guaranteed stability and neutrality by an international body.

"It will take strong will and determination to bring peace to Vietnam and to get on with the establishment of a free government, and the ultimate withdrawal of U.S. forces, but it is a task we should undertake," said Gavin, now a Cambridge, Mass., businessman.

As he did one year ago, Gavin counseled against escalation of the Vietnam conflict.

He said the "decisive use of massive power" against North Vietnam, with seizure and occupation of Hanoi and Haiphong, would be most dangerous.

"This might provide the very basis for bringing order into the Chinese situation, with a prompt and militant response to the aid of Hanoi," Gavin said.

He also spoke critically of American bombing in Vietnam. "The bombing of North Vietnam has caused considerable civilian casualties, has not stopped the flow of supplies to the South, and has aroused the ill will of people throughout the world," Gavin said.

He also said the Viet Cong

must now know it cannot win military victory against the present American forces in Vietnam.

"What is now needed is the political solution," he said. "Such a solution, promptly arrived at, will enable us to deal with affairs in other parts of the world, areas where our attention is sadly needed."

ORIGIN OF LANGUAGE?

Q. We have 5-year-old twins in our immediate family. The girls seem to communicate with each other in a special kind of "foreign language". Is this normal?

A. Twins often develop a "secret language" — a soft, quick communication by vowel sounds — to protect their common interests. A language expert suggests that further study of this special kind of "twin language" may provide clues to the prehistoric origin of language. Incidentally, twins usually stop communicating in this way at about age 7.

REACTIONS TO TOOTHPASTE

Q. Is it possible to be allergic to toothpaste? My mouth gets sore when I use certain brands of paste.

A. Some people may complain of sore patches on the tongue after using certain brands of toothpaste. When a change to another brand is made the soreness usually disappears, indicating that the type of paste used was related to the soreness. Most toothpastes contain six or seven components but the exact formula is seldom indicated by the manufacturer. It's quite possible for an occasional person to be allergic to one or more of the components of toothpaste.

Celtics Say 'This Thing' Will End: Knicks Hope So

NEW YORK (AP) — "I expect this thing to go by the way any time now," says Player-Coach Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics.

Palmer Tells Why He Came Little Late

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer was late for the dinner at the midtown hotel — he got there but he was late. So he apologized and explained why.

"It's a matter of diet," he said. "You see, I was playing this charity exhibition in New Orleans with Phil Harris and Dean Martin. We started at 1:30 New York time and were supposed to go 18 holes.

"But they knew I was supposed to be at this dinner, as they graciously let me go at the end of 13.

"I say graciously. The fact is, Dean couldn't make it any further and they called it off. No peanut butter for that boy."

The peanut butter reference was to Al Geiberger, who won the 1966 Professional Golfers Association championship while munching on peanut butter sandwiches.

He was one of many persons honored Tuesday night at the annual dinner of the Metropolitan Golf Writers' Association.

Over 100 Horses Trained Locally For Race Season

Among the more busy trainers are Jim Arledge, and Forrest Short, both stabled at the Fairgrounds, and Jim Mace, training at Van Camp Stables.

Also located in Pickaway County, although he claims Washington C. H. as his home, is McKinley Kirk's stable.

Most of the local trainers and owners will have entries in the annual Spring Harness Matinee April 16 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

The speed program of the Pickaway County Fair this year is scheduled Aug. 1 and 2. Tentative plans call for three races each day with purses totaling $3,000 for the meet.

The speed committee is made up of Harlow Arledge, Wayne Martin, Glenn McCoy and John Fissell.

As a new innovation at the matinee this year, a drawing will be held during the afternoon's program and several prizes will be awarded.

For the New York Knickerbockers it can't be too soon for any time to come around and for this thing to go by the way.

Russell and Howell made their comments Tuesday night after the Celtics trounced the Knicks 143-114 for their 16th straight victory over New York, dating back to March 17, 1965.

In other National Basketball Association action, Detroit edged St. Louis 112-109 and San Francisco turned back Los Angeles 136-133.

After the first period Tuesday night, Boston left little doubt as to which team would win.

Sam Jones scored six quick points early in the second quarter. The Celtics, who led 28-27 after the first period, broke to a 10-point lead, 41-31, and built it to 15 at intermission, 71-56.

Detroit put on an eight-point flurry to break a 97-97 tie for its victory over the Hawks at St. Louis. Eddie Miles and Wayne Hightower scored baskets and John Tresvant sank a pair in the sport.

At San Diego, Rick Barry and Jeff Mullins caught fire in the second half to ignite the Warriors' victory over the Lakers. Barry, the NBA's top scorer, collected 16 of his 34 points in the third period and Mullins tallied 15 of his 27 in the final quarter.

NFL Dallies Over Draft Formula

HONOLULU (AP) —The National Football League still is marking time today on the controversial college draft formula after making minor changes in the playing rules and setting up the schedule for its profitable postseason title play.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle has been taking his time before pressing for action on the date and format of the first common draft with the American Football League.

Before the meetings end Thursday or Friday, Rozelle hopes to have his forces in agreement on separate regular and red shirt drafts in mid-March. The AFL already has separate drafts for the red shirts, players who still have college eligibility although their original class has graduated.

Rozelle said Tuesday the draft had not come up yet although there had been some discussion of proposals that restrict trading of draft choices, especially the red shirt variety. However, no action has been taken.

It's Time For Spring Training

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
From headaches to holdouts, signings to retiring, baseball ran the gamut Tuesday as spring training rolled around.

Pitcher Milt Pappas, the man Baltimore traded to Cincinnati for Frank Robinson, tried to clear up the headaches by refuting a blast Monday by teammate Joe Nuxhall, who claimed Pappas did not "give the ball club an honest effort."

Nuxhall said Pappas twice declined his starting turn last season because of headaches.

Pappas, a 10-year veteran with a 122-85 record, passed on part of those headaches to the Reds by adding he would not be on hand when Cincinnati opens spring training in Tampa Friday.

Pappas received about $35,000 last year.

The Reds also got some painful news from all-star second baseman Pete Rose, who led the team with a .313 average. He thinks he should be paid extra for a proposed switch to the outfield this year.

However, new General Manager Bob Howsam insisted he anticipates little trouble signing Rose and other regulars Vada Pinson, Deron Johnson and Tommy Helms, along with top reserve Al Shamsky.

The Atlanta Braves might not have it so easy with all-star catcher Joe Torre, who sits with Hank Aaron and Ken Johnson among those Braves unsigned.

Torre was missing when the pitchers and catchers opened training Tuesday, but he won't be an official holdout until March 1. The problem, as usual, is money. Torre wants $70,000, about a $30,000 boost from last year, the Braves reportedly are offering $60,000.

World champion Baltimore, Cleveland and Washington also were having signing troubles.

With Oriole battersmen scheduled to report today, still unsigned were pitchers Steve Barber, Jim Palmer, Dave McNally, Eddie Fisher, Eddie Watt and Tom Phoebus. Infielders Boog Powell, Dave Johnson and Bob Johnson and outfielder Curt Blefary, scheduled to report March 1, also were unsigned.

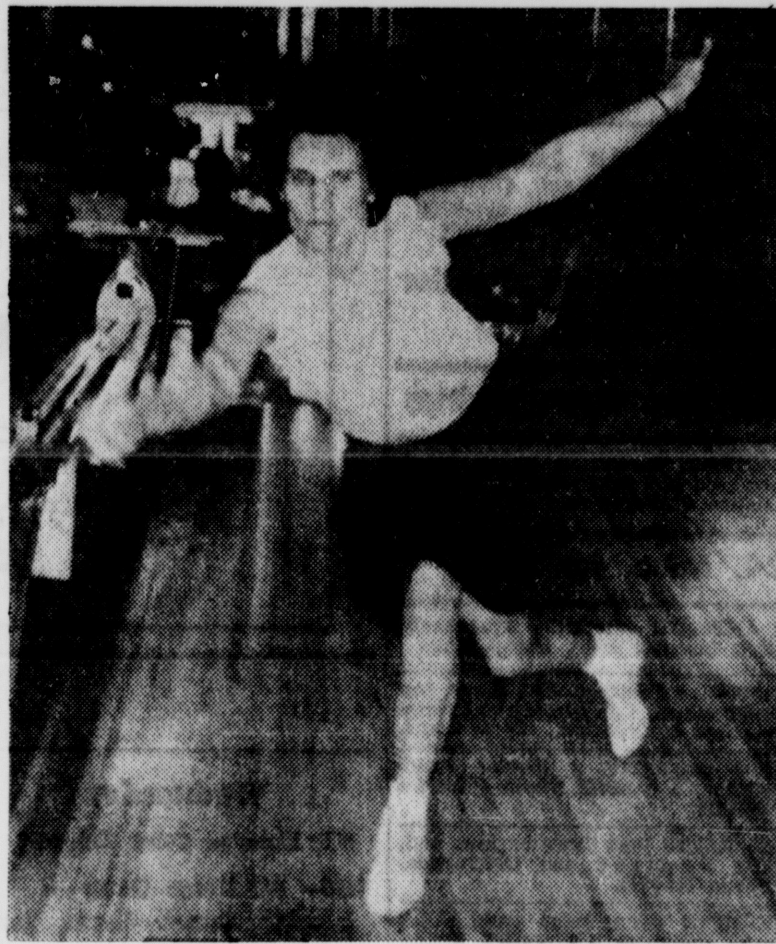

The Indians worried about Rocky Colavito and Sonny Siebert while the Senators were missing pitchers Camilo Pascual, Bob Humphreys and Bob Priddy.

Bob Cousey Happy Where He Is Now

NEWTON Mass. (AP) — Bob Cousy one of basketball's all-time greats as a player says he's happy as coach at Boston College and isn't interested in other offers.

Cousy refused even to discuss reports Tuesday that the new American Basketball Association has made four different offers for him to either coach or serve as general manager of a club.

The Centennial race track in Denver has banned all 4-year-old horses that have not won a race and all horses now 12 years old.

TOP FORM — Mary Pabst set a Circleville record Friday night in the Mixed Doubles league at Circle D lanes when she rolled a 665 series. A bowler for 16 years, she holds 171, 175, 166 averages. Friday she had single games of 213, 258 and 194. She rolls a conventional grip using a 16-pound ball. She bowls in three leagues. Her series is the highest ever rolled here by a woman in league competition.

Scioto Valley Conference Considers Expansion Plans

The expansion of the Scioto Valley Conference to an eight team league topped the agenda when the SVC winter meeting was held Tuesday at Tink's.

The conference schools voted to extend "feelers" to Adena, East Clinton, The Plains of Mt. Sterling and to Amanda-Clear-creek.

Of the four proposed schools, only East Clinton is presently unaffiliated. Adena is a member of the Ross County Basketball League and the Mid State Football League. The

Wilmington Loses Tourney Tilt, 69-48

Wilmington was knocked out of the Dayton District tournament Tuesday, losing to tall and talented Dayton Belmont.

The Hurricane became the third of the South Central Ohio League Schools to fall by the wayside on the tournament trail.

Washington was the first to go losing at Columbus to Bishop Ready, Hillsboro was ousted by Chillicothe.

The three other league teams play Friday. Circleville meets Marion Franklin 9 p. m. in the Coliseum at Columbus.

Miami Trace plays Chillicothe at 7 p. m. and Greenfield meets Lancaster at 8:15 p. m. in the Paint Valley sectional Tournament.

Wilmington closed the season with a 12-7 record.

Dayton Belmont, paced by Kenny May with 23 and Danny Reasoner with 22, have a 15-4 record.

Former Ashville Cager Is Star at Northwood College

MIDLAND, Mich. — Tom Rathburn will go down in Northwood Institute basketball history as one of the greatest players ever to perform for the Blue and White.

Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rathburn, Ashville. He played under Coach Russ Gregg at Ashville High School.

A former all-stater at Ashville High School, Rathburn will end a brilliant three-year career for the Northmen on Feb. 23 when they host Penta Tech of Perrysburg.

The 6-4 forward-guard and co-captain is unspectacular, but gets the job done time after time.

Through 15 games this season, Rathburn had 324 points for a 21.6 average. He ranks second to Jerry Pettway's 24.9 on the team.

Tom leads the Midland collegians in field goal percentage, connecting on 123 of 252 attempts for 48.8 per cent. He's also the tops in free throw shooting with 86.4 per cent on 76 of 88 tries. Rathburn is third in rebounding.

Coach Tom Brown has this to say about Rathburn, an all-county and all Darby Valley League selection for four straight years:

"Tom isn't as exciting as Pettway, but is consistent and can shoot from both in and out.

Physically he's strong and is a good free throw shooter. I'll say this, I would rather have him playing for me, than against me. He's unselfish, yet has the confidence to go for the big basket."

Rathburn has been in double figures every game this season. His big nights came against Davenport College of Grand Rapids (Mich.) and Wilberforce University (Ohio) when he scored 38 and 30 points respectively. Tom has been in the 20 or more category on seven other occasions.

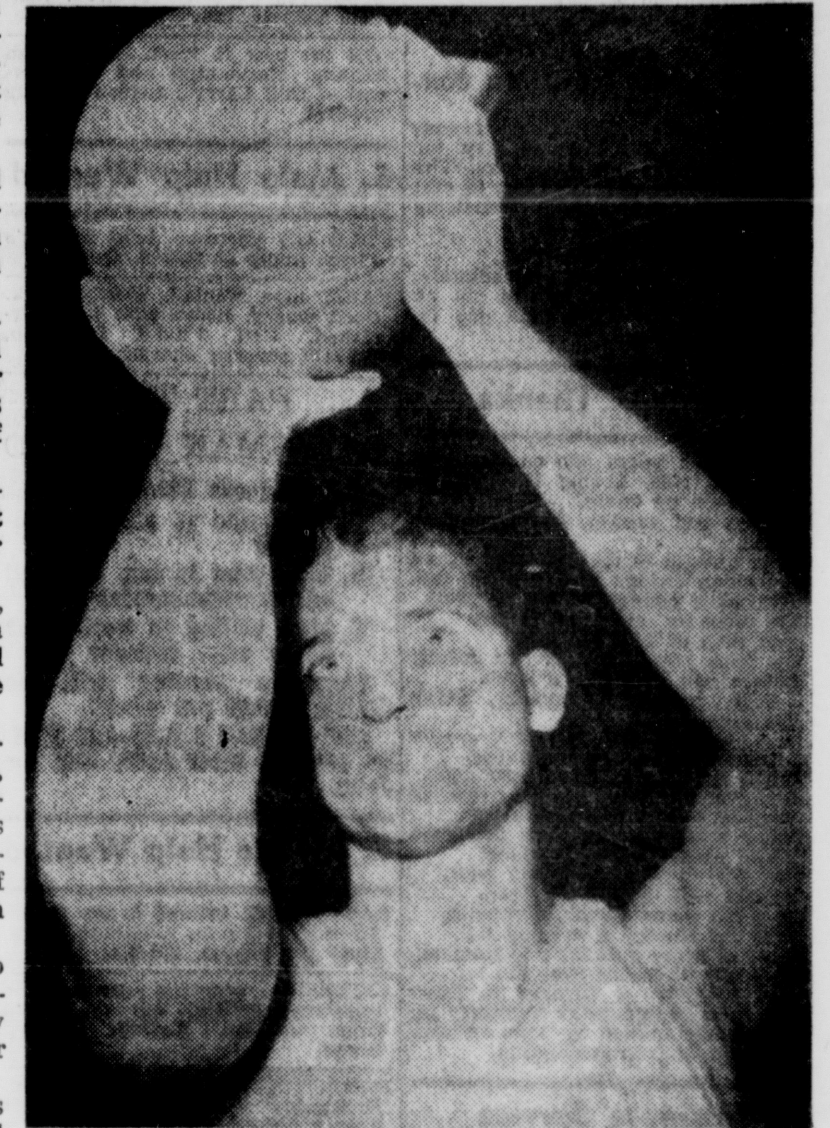

The Northmen currently hold a 6-9 mark. They finished at 14-8 in 1965-66.

Last season Rathburn averaged 29.5 points and 11.4 rebounds per game. He hit 53.4 per cent from the floor and 81.6 at the foul line. His 29.5 scoring average ranked 17th in the nation.

Together with Pettway's 32.2 average, they formed what probably was the most prolific scoring due in the country.

Tom normally plays forward, but has been used some at guard

this season in Coach Brown's search for a winning combination. Northwood has four games remaining.

Rathburn's performance this season is all the more remarkable when the following is taken into consideration. Tom works from 40 to 54 hours a week at Bill Grimes Ford Company in Midland, he earned four B's and an A during the fall term (his major is Automotive Marketing), he's married and, of course, he's playing ball.

Tom and the former Kathy Mead of Midland were married last September. Rathburn carries a 3.41 grade average overall, including transfer credits from Ohio State. He also has found time to be a starting pitcher and a top hitter on the baseball team for two seasons.

The Brewer Memorial Award, given annually to Northwood's most outstanding athlete, was won by Rathburn for the 1965-66 school year. The honor is awarded on the basis of scholastic average, character and athletic ability. Mrs. William Brewer of Findlay, Ohio, donates the trophy in memory of her late son, Tom.

World champion Baltimore, Cleveland and Washington also were having signing troubles.

With Oriole battermen scheduled to report today, still unsigned were pitchers Steve Barber, Jim Palmer, Dave McNally, Eddie Fisher, Eddie Watt and Tom Phoebus. Infielders Boog Powell, Dave Johnson and Bob Johnson and outfielder Curt Blefary, scheduled to report March 1, also were unsigned.

The Indians worried about Rocky Colavito and Sonny Siebert while the Senators were missing pitchers Camilo Pascual, Bob Humphreys and Bob Priddy.

Bob Cousy Happy Where He Is Now

NEWTON Mass. (AP) — Bob Cousy one of basketball's all-time greats as a player says he's happy as coach at Boston College and isn't interested in other offers.

Cousy refused even to discuss reports Tuesday that the new American Basketball Association has made four different offers for him to either coach or serve as general manager of a club.

The Centennial race track in Denver has banned all 4-year-old horses that have not won a race and all horses now 12 years old.

TOP FORM — Mary Pabst set a Circleville record Friday night in the Mixed Doubles league at Circle D lanes when she rolled a 665 series. A bowler for 16 years, she holds 171, 175, 166 averages. Friday she had single games of 213, 258 and 194. She rolls a conventional grip using a 16-pound ball. She bowls in three leagues. Her series is the highest ever rolled here by a woman in league competition.

Scioto Valley Conference Considers Expansion Plans

The expansion of the Scioto Valley Conference to an eight team league topped the agenda when the SVC winter meeting was held Tuesday at Tink's.

The conference schools voted to extend "feelers" to Adena, East Clinton, The Plains of Mt. Sterling and to Amanda-Clearcreek.

Of the four proposed schools, only East Clinton is presently unaffiliated. Adena is a member of the Ross County Basketball League and the Mid State Football League. The

Wilmington Loses Tourney Tilt, 69-48

Wilmington was knocked out of the Dayton District tournament Tuesday, losing to tall and talented Dayton Belmont.

The Hurricane became the third of the South Central Ohio League Schools to fall by the wayside on the tournament trail.

Washington was the first to go losing at Columbus to Bishop Ready, Hillsboro was ousted by Chillicothe.

The three other league teams play Friday. Circleville meets Marion Franklin 9 p. m. in the Coliseum at Columbus.

Miami Trace plays Chillicothe at 7 p. m. and Greenfield meets Lancaster at 8:15 p. m. in the Paint Valley sectional Tournament.

Wilmington closed the season with a 12-7 record.

John Petty was the leading scorer for the Hurricane in the finale, notching 16 points on seven field goals and two foul shots. Dayton Belmont, paced by Kenny May with 23 and Danny Reasoner with 22, have a 15-4 record.

Plains is in the Darby Valley League in all sports.

Amanda is in the Mid State Football League and the Fairfield County Basketball loop.

PRESENT members of the SVC are Logan Elm, Westfall, Laurelville, Piketon, Union and Paint Valley. Conference sports are football, basketball, baseball and track. Laurelville does not compete in football. All are Class A schools.

In other business conducted by the league last night, it was voted to hold the track meet at Adena High School again this year. Tentative dates to be considered are May 2, May 8 and May 10.

The All-Star Banquet will be held 6:30 p. m. May 15 at Lake White.

The All-League basketball team was selected by the cage coaches during the meeting. The announcement of the team is being delayed until all of the schools complete tournament play.

Westfall and Laurelville both remain in tourney action and both play Friday night. Westfall meets St. Mary 8 p. m. at Teays Valley and Laurelville tangles with Chillicothe Bishop Flaget 8:15 p. m. at Chillicothe.

Folley Won't Get Clay's Mouth Act

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay planned another light workout today for his March 22 fight in New York with Zora Folley, an opponent the champ describes as "so quiet" that he will be spared Clay's famous talking treatment.

"He don't go around saying how he's going to beat me or why don't I give him a chance at the title," Clay said Tuesday at his first workout since arriving in Houston, where he now makes his home.

Former Ashville Cager Is Star at Northwood College

MIDLAND, Mich. — Tom Rathburn will go down in Northwood Institute basketball history as one of the greatest players ever to perform for the Blue and White.

Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rathburn, Ashville. He played under Coach Russ Gregg at Ashville High School.

A former all-stater at Ashville High School, Rathburn will end a brilliant three-year career for the Northmen on Feb. 23 when they host Penta Tech of Perrysburg.

The 6-4 forward-guard and co-captain is unspectacular, but gets the job done time after time.

Through 15 games this season, Rathburn had 324 points for a 21.6 average. He ranks second to Jerry Pettway's 24.9 on the team.

Tom leads the Midland collegiates in field goal percentage, connecting on 123 of 252 attempts for 48.8 per cent. He's also the tops in free throw shooting with 86.4 per cent on 76 of 88 tries. Rathburn is third in rebounding.

Coach Tom Brown has this to say about Rathburn, an all-county and all Darby Valley League selection for four straight years:

"Tom isn't as exciting as Pettway, but is consistent and can shoot from both in and out. Physically he's strong and is a good free throw shooter. I'll say this, I would rather have him playing for me, than against me. He's unselfish, yet has the confidence to go for the big basket."

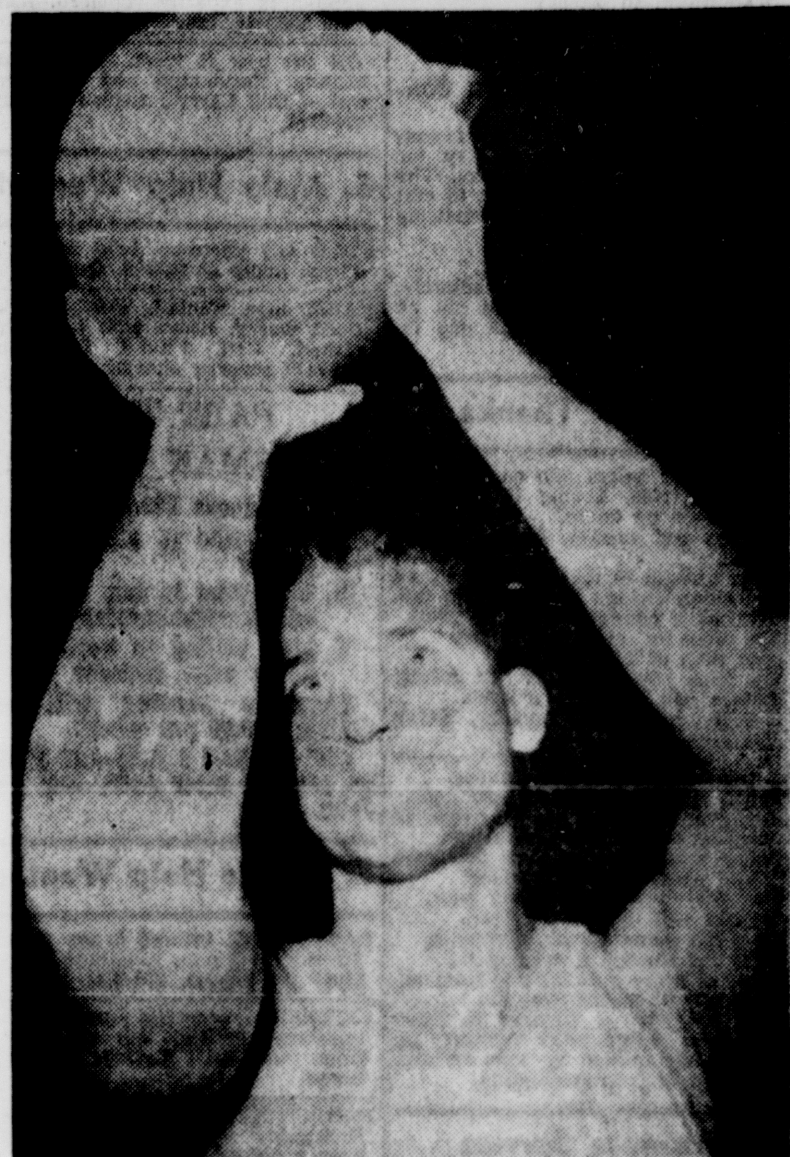

Rathburn has been in double figures every game this season. His big nights came against Davenport College of Grand Rapids (Mich.) and Wilberforce University (Ohio) when he scored 38 and 30 points respectively. Tom has been in the 20 or more category on seven other occasions.

The Northmen currently hold a 6-9 mark. They finished at 14-8 in 1965-66.

Last season Rathburn averaged 29.5 points and 11.4 rebounds per game. He hit 53.4 per cent from the floor and 81.6 at the foul line. His 29.5 scoring average ranked 17th in the nation. Together with Pettway's 32.2 average, they formed what probably was the most prolific scoring due in the country.

Rathburn came to Northwood in the 1964-65 season after playing freshman ball at Ohio State. His sophomore year produced a 20.7 point average and 13.1 rebounds per outing.

Tom normally plays forward, but has been used some at guard

this season in Coach Brown's search for a winning combination. Northwood has four games remaining.

Rathburn's performance this season is all the more remarkable when the following is taken into consideration. Tom works from 40 to 54 hours a week at Bill Grimes Ford Company in Midland, he earned four B's and an A during the fall term (his major is Automotive Marketing), he's married and, of course, he's playing ball.

Tom and the former Kathy Mead of Midland were married last September. Rathburn carries a 3.41 grade average overall, including transfer credits from Ohio State. He also has found time to be a starting pitcher and a top hitter on the baseball team for two seasons.

The Brewer Memorial Award, given annually to Northwood's most outstanding athlete, was won by Rathburn for the 1965-66 school year. The honor is awarded on the basis of scholastic average, character and athletic ability. Mrs. William Brewer of Findlay, Ohio, donates the trophy in memory of her late son, Tom.

Here Are 9 Reasons Why You Should Buy A Hoover Spin Drying Washer

ROLLS ON LARGE CASTERS
Large easy rolling casters let the HOOVER move about with complete ease. Store it in one place... use it in another.

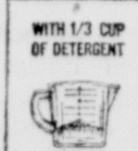

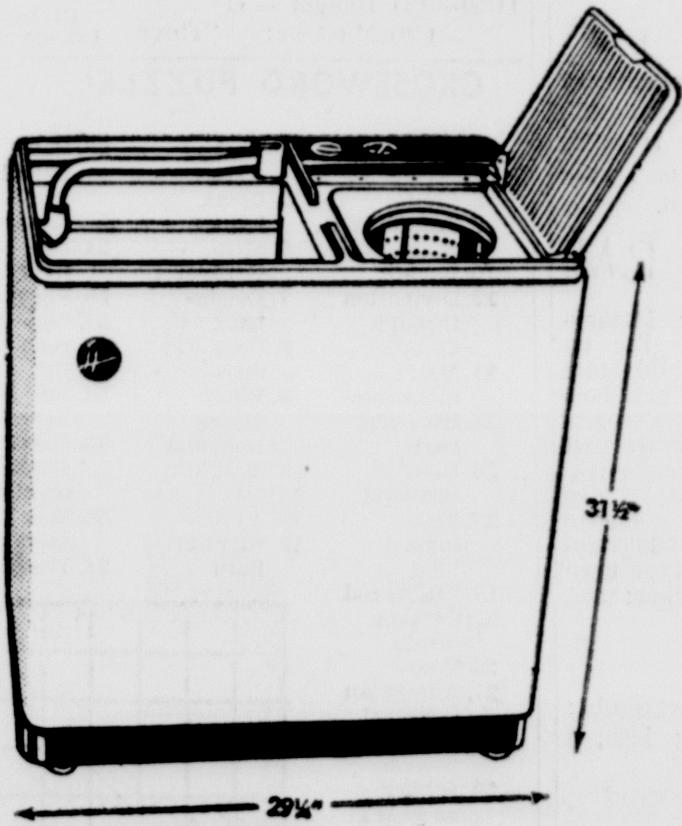

FAMILY-SIZE LOADS
2 Double Sheets plus pillow cases, or 36 diapers, or 12 men's shirts. Washes even the most delicate things.

TURBO-ACTION AGITATION
The unique HOOVER energy disk, located on the back of the washer tub, actually surges water through the clothes. This remarkable wash action gets clothes really clean.

SAVES $$ ON WATER
Uses only 1/3 the amount of water that most automatics use. Saves up to 100 gallons every 3 loads.

SAVES $$ ON DETERGENT
The washing action is so efficient, it needs less detergent than the agitator or tumbler-type washer. It has a SUDS-SAVER, too!

WASHES FAST
The HOOVER washes a full load of laundry in four minutes or less, in a gleaming lifetime stainless steel wash tub.

DRIES IN SECONDS
The clothes are spun at the amazing speed of 2,000 RPM, this enables the washer to extract soap or detergents that can't be rinsed out. Laundry comes out really damp-dry.

NO PLUMBING NECESSARY
Needs no plumbing, needs no installation. Just roll the HOOVER to any sink, slip on the hose and start washing. Pump empties washer automatically.

EASY TO SERVICE No gears or complicated control panels. Truly a do-it-yourself washer. Belt replacement is a breeze... less need for costly service.

1. Card of Thanks

Just nine years ago on the date,
Feb. 22, 1959, the passing of
was taken by death.
So sad and sudden, death came to call.
Your sudden death surprised us all.
A sudden change in a moment fell.
Without a chance to say farewell.
We often sit and think of you
And then of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
Sadly missed by mother, Sarah
Eldridge.

I thanked God in the evening
When the day was past and gone.
And I praised Him for His presence
Guiding me from early dawn.
Many were the cares and problems
There arose, unseen, to meet
But His Presence was my pilot,
Calmly sailing over the deep.
So I lay aside earth's problems,
Now the shades of evening fall.
Thus in peace and faith to slumber,
With His Presence over all.
In memory of Richard S. Daw-
son, who passed away February 22,
1964. Sadly missed by wife, Lenora,
Children and Grandchildren.

1. Card of Thanks

Just nine years ago on the date,
Feb. 22, 1958, of George E. Eldridge
was taken by death.
So sad and sudden, death came to call.
Your sudden death surprised us all.
Without a chance to say farewell.
We often sit and think of you
And then of how you died.
To think you could leave so goodby
Before you closed your eyes.
Sadly missed by mother, Sarah
Eldridge.
I thanked God in the evening
When the day was past and gone.
And I praised Him for His presence
Guiding me from early dawn.
Many were the cares and problems
There arose, unseen, to meet
But His Presence was my pilot,
Calmly sailing over the deep.
So I lay aside earth's problems.
Now the shades of evening fall.
Thus in peace and faith to slumber,
With His Presence all.
In memory of Richard S. Daw-
son, who passed away February 22,
1964. Sadly missed by wife, Lenora,
Children and Grandchildren.

Cincy Reds Just Aren't Signing Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — With pitchers and catchers due to start spring training this week-end at Tampa, Fla., barely half of the 40 baseball players on the Cincinnati Reds' roster have come to contract terms as of today.

Many of the 21 players under contract are youngsters who have yet to work in their first major league game. Its the Reds' worst showing for the date in many years.

Bob Howsam, the Reds' new general manager, is well fixed only in the catching department with both Johnny Edwards and Jim Coker under contract. Jim Bench, a young catcher up from the Carolina League, also was signed.

It's different with the pitchers, even though 10 of the 20 men on the roster have come to terms.

Those who have signed up include Jim Maloney, who staged a hold-out last year, veteran Joe Nuxhall and young Mel Queen, who started out as an outfielder but is moving over to the mound, and Darrell Osteen.

Among those holding out are Milt Pappas, Billy McCool, Sammy Ellis and relievers Jack Baldschun and Don Nottebart. Pappas said Tuesday at Baltimore he will go to Florida, but plans to take a rest unless the Reds come up with more money.

"They offered me the same salary, and they haven't asked me yet what I want," said the righthander who had a 12-11 record in 1966.

Pappas also said he was surprised at news stories quoting Nuxhall as saying he dragged his feet last year. Nuxhall also said he took Pappas' starting turn twice because Pappas had a headache.

"I was bothered the whole season with sinus," Pappas said. "I figured, what's the use of jeopardizing a ball game with a sinus headache."

Among the other players, the Reds still need the signatures of Vada Pinson, Deron Johnson, Pete Rose, Tommy Helms and Art Shamsky to assure them of a better season than last year's seventh place.

Illinois Goes On Trial Today Before Big 10

CHICAGO (AP)—The University of Illinois goes on trial today before Big Ten athletic directors and Commissioner Bill Reed.

Reed will present a report to the athletic directors on his investigation of athletic irregularities stemming from last December's exposure of a $21,000 slush fund.

Reed's investigation began Dec. 16 shortly after the university revealed the athletic department had been operating an unauthorized fund solicited outside the university for a period of five years.

The university immediately suspended 12 football and basketball players who had received unauthorized financial assistance and placed football Coach Pete Elliott and basketball Coach Harry Combes on one year's probation prohibiting them from personal contact with prospective athletes.

After the athletic directors study Reed's report they will determine what if any Big Ten action will be taken.

Any decision can be appealed before faculty representatives within a period of five days.

Coach Murray Armstrong calls his 1966-67 University of Denver hockey team the youngest he has had in 10 years at the school.

Sonny Dove Just About Wins Berth for Redmen

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sonny Dove virtually wrapped up a postseason tournament berth for the St. John's University Redmen of New York Tuesday night.

The 6-foot-8 star threw in 27 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in leading the Redmen to a come-from-behind 71-64 victory over eighth-ranked Syracuse in the top college basketball game of the night.

"He whipped us good," said Syracuse Coach Fred Lewis after Dove's brilliant play snapped the 12-game winning streak of the Orange and also a 22-game home court streak.

Syracuse led by seven points midway of the second half before three straight baskets by Dove cut the deficit to one and ignited a 14-4 spurt in the closing minutes for St. John's seventh straight triumph.

St. John's, now 19-3, now is expected to have the choice of playing either in the NCAA or the NIT when invitations are issued Thursday to the two major postseason tournaments.

Rick Dean's 18 points led the Orange, the only team in the Associated Press Top Ten to see action. Despite the defeat, Syracuse, also 19-3, is believed to be in line for an NIT berth.

Connecticut clinched its 15th Yankee Conference title in 20 years and an automatic bid to the NCAA by crushing New Hampshire 114-75 at Storrs behind 42 points by Wes Bialosuknia.

Villanova, 15-8, boosted its hopes for an NIT bid by upsetting Providence 55-52 on the Friars' home court. Jimmy Walker, Providence star, was held to only five points compared to his 29.1 average as the Wildcats chalked up their eighth victory in nine starts.

Dayton, Boston College and Chicago Loyola, other tournament hopefuls, won. Dayton, now 20-4, pulled out an 80-79 road victory over Miami, Fla., on Glinder Torain's two free throws in the last 14 seconds. The Hurricanes had wiped out a 20-point deficit to lead 79-78 with 49 seconds on the clock.

The Loyola Ramblers, 12-9, also won on the road downing Ohio University 73-70. Two free throws by Bill Baumgardner in the last second after he had stolen a Bobcat pass sewed it up over Boston University 74-66 at Newton, Mass.

Wisconsin defeated Northwestern 110-94 and Minnesota edged Iowa 88-86 in two upsets in the torrid Big Ten Conference race. Soph Jim Johnson led Wisconsin with 31 points at Madison where Jim Burns got 26 for Northwestern before fouling out with nine minutes left.

Tom Kondla's 13-foot jumper with three seconds to go gave Minnesota its upset over Iowa at Minneapolis. Sam Williams' lay-up after he had stolen the ball had tied the score for Iowa with 15 seconds left.

Only a week ago Iowa, Northwestern, Michigan State and Indiana had been tied for the lead in the Big Ten. Now Indiana leads with 7-2, Michigan State is second at 6-3 with Iowa, Northwestern and Wisconsin tied at 5-4.

Southern Methodist maintained its two-game lead in the Southwest Conference by beating Arkansas 69-66 at Dallas behind Denny Holman's 20 points. Harry Triplet's lay-up with five seconds left gave Texas A&M a 71-69 upset over Baylor at College Station.

Tuesday Night Was Sad For Ohio U Basketball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dayton and Ashland became 20-game winners and Kent State averted a winless Mid-American Conference campaign but Tuesday was a sad basketball night for Ohio University.

The Flyers moved up to 20-4 by edging Miami (Fla.) on the Hurricane premises, 80-79; the Eagles soared to 20-2 by making Malone their 16th consecutive victim, 74-58; the Flashes stunned Bowling Green 61-59. At Athens, the Bobcats scrapped hard but lost to Chicago Loyola 73-70. It assured the first losing campaign in 14 years for Ohio U's coach Jim Snyder.

In other Ohio games, Wittenberg and Baldwin-Wallace moved to within a final step of sharing the Ohio Conference regular season crown. The Tigers slaughtered Heidelberg 105-58 while the Yellow Jackets belted Mount Union 93-59.

Denison beat Wooster 76-68 and Capital trimmed Muskingum 94-81 in other OC tilts. Ohio Northern routed Anderson (Ind.) 110-88 and Central State lost to Gannon (Pa.) 68-65, rounding out the slate.

Glinder Torain's two free throws with 14 seconds left hoisted Dayton to its victory after Miami had wiped out a 20-point halftime lag and gone in front 68-67 and again 79-78. Bobby Hooper scored 17 points, Torain 14, Don May 13, Gene Klaus 13 and unexpected Flyer help came from little-used sophomore Ned Sharpenter with 11.

Doug Grayson's jump shot with 23 seconds to go produced the Kent triumph. BG's Walt Piatkowski traded baskets through the closing minutes until the KSU player's game-winning shot ended the Flashes' run of 10 straight MAC losses. He finished with 17 points, Piatkowski 15.

Ohio University, now 8-13, gambled by trying to stall the final minute for a last shot while trailing 71-70 and the strategy backfired. With eight seconds left Loyola's Bill Baumgardner stole the ball was fouled and converted two points. Bobcat Gerry McKee pumped in 33 points in vain.

Jim Appleby, hitting from long range, scored 26 points to lead Wittenberg to its easy victory while Terry Allerton canned 25 in Baldwin-Wallace's success. The teams each have 11-1 league records, with the Tigers closing against Marietta Saturday while the Bereans play Muskingum.

Cincy Reds Just Aren't Signing Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — With pitchers and catchers due to start spring training this week-end at Tampa, Fla., barely half of the 40 baseball players on the Cincinnati Reds' roster have come to contract terms as of today.

Many of the 21 players under contract are youngsters who have yet to work in their first major league game. Its the Reds' worst showing for the date in many years.

Bob Howsam, the Reds' new general manager, is well fixed only in the catching department with both Johnny Edwards and Jim Coker under contract. Jim Bench, a young catcher up from the Carolina League, also was signed.

It's different with the pitchers, even though 10 of the 20 men on the roster have come to terms.

Those who have signed up include Jim Maloney, who staged a hold-out last year, veteran Joe Nuxhall and young Mel Queen, who started out as an outfielder but is moving over to the mound, and Darrell Osteen.

Among those holding out are Milt Pappas, Billy McCool, Sammy Ellis and relievers Jack Baldschun and Don Nottebart.

Pappas said Tuesday at Baltimore he will go to Florida, but plans to take a rest unless the Reds come up with more money.

"They offered me the same salary, and they haven't asked me yet what I want," said the righthander who had a 12-11 record in 1966.

Pappas also said he was surprised at news stories quoting Nuxhall as saying he dragged his feet last year. Nuxhall also said he took Pappas' starting turn twice because Pappas had a headache.

"I was bothered the whole season with sinus," Pappas said. "I figured, what's the use of jeopardizing a ball game with a sinus headache."

CIA Was Object of Pressure, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — The central Intelligence Agency sought to certain its financing of private organizations in the past but ran into objections from other arms of the government, says Sen. Milton R. Young.

The North Dakota Republican said every investment the CIA made in an organization outside the government was undertaken on written instructions, apparently from the National Security Council.

He said the spy agency's checks were subject to scrutiny in the Bureau of the Budget, like the Security Council, a White House agency.

Young said in some instances

CIA financial support originally was promoted by the State Department.

Young, senior Republican on the Senate panel which oversees CIA financing and operation, said the intelligence agency was trying to get some of its instructions changed prior to the public storm that broke last week with disclosure it had been subsidizing the National Student Association.

Young said secrecy restrictions barred his giving a more detailed description. He talked after CIA Director Richard Helms briefed the Senate panel for three hours Tuesday. Helms also met with the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate subcommittee, said Helms reported the agency is withdrawing financial support of some private organizations.

He would not quote Helms further. Russell did not make clear whether the Helms report involved a halt in aid to groups still secretly receiving CIA funds. Helms would not answer newsmen's questions after the hearing.

In other developments:

— Sources close to President Johnson said he will make no statement about CIA subsidies until a panel of three government officials completes its review of the situation.

— Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he flatly opposes secret government investment in private organizations.

— The student body president of the University of California at Berkeley, Dan McIntosh, said the National Student Association's "international program is dead. The credibility of United States students abroad is greatly damaged." He is on the NSA board.

— Peter O'Donnell Jr., Texas Republican chairman, said the Jones-O'Donnell Foundation which he heads has served as a conduit for CIA funds.

— Republican Reps. Donald E. Lukens of Ohio and John E. Hunt of New Jersey demanded a congressional investigation to determine "how much of the millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money the CIA channeled to private organizations was used for leftist purposes."

The presidential sources said Johnson does not want to pre-judge the case, wants solid facts before speaking publicly and wants the benefit of judgment and recommendations of the investigating panel of Helms, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John W. Gardner.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Ohio skies were clear most of the night and temperatures dropped to as low as 15 at Marietta and 18 at Chesapeake. By dawn today, however, high cloudiness began to increase and winds changed to southerly.

Winds will change to northwesterly early tonight and cloudy, cold weather will continue into Thursday.

Temperatures in the 20s and 30s are expected Thursday afternoon.

OHIO FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average well below normal Thursday through Monday, with highs mostly in the upper 20s or low 30s north and in the 30s south. Lows will probably average in the teens. It will be colder Thursday, with only day-to-day changes thereafter. Precipitation will total about .25 to .5 inch melted north and less than .25 inch south, occurring as light snow or snow flurries on most days of the period but mostly north and east.

CENTRAL OHIO — Cloudy windy and colder tonight and Thursday. Low tonight about 18. High Thursday in the mid 20s.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy and turning colder again tonight and Thursday. Snow flurries east. Low tonight 8-11.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Cloudy tonight and Thursday. Colder Thursday. Low tonight 12-20. High Thursday in the upper 20s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy and turning colder tonight. Low in the teens. Thursday partly cloudy and cold.

Masons, Catholic Group To Join in Civic Program

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Officials of the Masons and the Roman Catholic Knights of Columbus have agreed to form joint civic programs on a broad basis.

In making the announcement Tuesday, officials of the two organizations said that the "fraternal" spirit was an outgrowth of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, which encouraged subsequent discussion and cooperation among many Protestant, Catholic and Jewish groups.

Councils of the Knights and lodges of the predominantly Protestant Masons have cooperated on the local level in recent years for such causes as blood drives and fund-raising campaigns to civic projects.

But the pledge of cooperation to form widespread programs in the "moral, civic and social action fields," was described by the two organizations in a statement as "the first time that he high officials met to explore avenues of cooperation."

The statement said it was agreed "that the ideal of a belief in the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God, which both fraternities embrace and support, could serve as a social and moral therapy for the ills of modern society."

The statement was released Tuesday by George A. Newbury of Buffalo, N.Y., sovereign grand commander of the 500,000 Masons in 15 Northeast and Middle Atlantic states, and John W. McDevitt of New Haven, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus.

McDevitt represents all 1.2-million members of the Knights of Columbus in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

There are four million Masons in the United States, but Masonic officials noted that there was not one national leader of the organization. Policy decisions, therefore, are made by sectional leaders.

Masonic officials said they expected other sectional leaders to join in the agreement reached by Newbury and McDevitt at a private meeting in New York City Jan. 19-20.

Now, from American Motors, the car that wasn't there.

This may well be the most important news to come out of Detroit this year.

A major gap has developed in today's automobile market—a gap that no American-built car is filling.

Because this gap exists, over 1,000,000 car buyers a year have not been able to get the car they wanted: a car for the American motorist at a list price competitive to foreign imports.

Today, American Motors' new management and nearly 2,500 American Motors/Rambler Dealers are filling that gap.

As of today, we are limiting future changes in our Rambler American line to essential changes that will further enhance the safety and reliability of these cars.

This will save us millions of dollars—and we and our dealers are passing the savings along to you now. This means that the Rambler American 220 two-door sedan that yesterday listed at $2,073 now lists at $1,839. It means that today, your American Motors/Rambler Dealer has put new price stickers on all nine Rambler American models.

For years, Rambler American has been the best value in an American automobile. Today, priced competitive to imported cars, it is the best automobile value in the world.

This week on television, we promised you exciting news from American Motors.

This is only the beginning.

NEARLY A WHITE HOUSE BABY—Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and wife Claire proudly introduce their new son Richard Jr., who came pretty close to being a White House baby. They were attending a reception there when Mrs. Schweiker became aware of labor pains. They made a hasty departure to George Washington University Hospital.

CIA Was Object of Pressure, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — The central intelligence Agency sought to certain its financing of private organizations in the past but ran into objections from other arms of the government, says Sen. Milton R. Young.

The North Dakota Republican said every investment the CIA made in an organization outside the government was undertaken on written instructions, apparently from the National Security Council.

He said the spy agency's checks were subject to scrutiny in the Bureau of the Budget, like the Security Council, a White House agency.

Young said in some instances

CIA financial support originally was promoted by the State Department.

Young, senior Republican on the Senate panel which oversees CIA financing and operation, said the intelligence agency was trying to get some of its instructions changed prior to the public storm that broke last week with disclosure it had been subsidizing the National Student Association.

Young said secrecy restrictions barred his giving a more detailed description. He talked after CIA Director Richard Helms briefed the Senate panel for three hours Tuesday. Helms also met with the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate subcommittee, said Helms reported the agency is withdrawing financial support of some private organizations. He would not quote Helms further. Russell did not make clear whether the Helms report involved a halt in aid to groups still secretly receiving CIA funds. Helms would not answer newsmen's questions after the hearing.

In other developments:

— Sources close to President Johnson said he will make no statement about CIA subsidies until a panel of three government officials completes its review of the situation.

— Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he flatly opposes secret government investment in private organizations.

— The student body president of the University of California at Berkeley, Dan McIntosh, said the National Student Association's "international program is dead. The credibility of United States students abroad is greatly damaged." He is on the NSA board.

— Peter O'Donnell Jr., Texas Republican chairman, said the Jones-O'Donnell Foundation which he heads has served as a conduit for CIA funds.

— Republican Reps. Donald E. Lukens of Ohio and John E. Hunt of New Jersey demanded a congressional investigation to determine "how much of the millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money the CIA channeled to private organizations was used for leftist purposes."

The presidential sources said Johnson does not want to pre-judge the case, wants solid facts before speaking publicly and wants the benefit of judgment and recommendations of the investigating panel of Helms, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John W. Gardner.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Ohio skies were clear most of the night and temperatures dropped to as low as 15 at Marietta and 18 at Chesapeake. By dawn today, however, high cloudiness began to increase and winds changed to southerly. Winds will change to northwesterly early tonight and cloudy, cold weather will continue into Thursday.

Temperatures in the 20s and 30s are expected Thursday afternoon.

OHIO FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average well below normal Thursday through Monday, with highs mostly in the upper 20s or low 30s north and in the 30s south. Lows will probably average in the teens. It will be colder Thursday, with only day-to-day changes thereafter. Precipitation will total about .25 to .5 inch melted north and less than .25 inch south, occurring as light snow or snow flurries on most days of the period but mostly north and east.

CENTRAL OHIO — Cloudy windy and colder tonight and Thursday. Low tonight about 18. High Thursday in the mid 20s.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy and turning colder again tonight and Thursday. Snow flurries east. Low tonight 8-11.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Cloudy tonight and Thursday. Colder Thursday. Low tonight 12-20. High Thursday in the upper 20s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy and turning colder tonight. Low in the teens. Thursday partly cloudy and cold.

Masons, Catholic Group To Join in Civic Program

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Officials of the Masons and the Roman Catholic Knights of Columbus have agreed to form joint civic programs on a broad basis.

In making the announcement Tuesday, officials of the two organizations said that the "fraternal" spirit was an outgrowth of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, which encouraged subsequent discussion and cooperation among many Protestant, Catholic and Jewish groups.

Councils of the Knights and lodges of the predominantly Protestant Masons have cooperated on the local level in recent years for such causes as blood drives and fund-raising campaigns to civic projects.

But the pledge of cooperation to form widespread programs in the "moral, civic and social action fields," was described by the two organizations in a statement as "the first time that he highest officials met to explore avenues of cooperation."

The statement said it was agreed "that the ideal of a belief in the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God, which both fraternities embrace and support, could serve as a social and moral therapy for the ills of modern society."

The statement was released Tuesday by George A. Newbury of Buffalo, N.Y., sovereign grand commander of the 500,000 Masons in 15 Northeast and Middle Atlantic states, and John W. McDewitt of New Haven, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus.

McDewitt represents all 1.2-million members of the Knights of Columbus in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

There are four million Masons in the United States, but Masonic officials noted that there was not one national leader of the organization. Policy decisions, therefore, are made by sectional leaders.

Masonic officials said they expected other sectional leaders to join in the agreement reached by Newbury and McDewitt at a private meeting in New York City Jan. 19-20.
